11. 'Madam Rides the Bus' is a story written by Vallikkannan about an eight - year old curious girl named Valli who wanted to enjoy a bus ride. After careful planning and saving enough money for the bus fare she finally got to enjoy her first excursion trip to town in a bus.

Valli's deepest desire was to ride in the bus that travelled from her village to the nearest town. She wistfully looked at the bus and the passengers sitting in the bus. When some friend from her school travels in a bus and tries to describe the journey, she would become too jealous. All this suggest that it was Valli's deepest desire to travel in a bus.

12. 'Diary of Anne Frank' is an excerpt / extract taken from Anne Frank's diary. She has described the incident when she was assigned an essay as punishment for talking in class by her Maths teacher Mr. Keesing.

Anne says that teachers are most unpredictable creatures on earth. She says so because teachers are full of surprises. Sometimes they are strict, other times kind. Their actions can be hard to predict because they have to manage different students and situations. This makes them interesting and unexpected, which is what Anne Frank found fascinating.

13. 'His First Flight' written by Liam O' Flaherty is a beautiful story about a young seagull's first flight. It shows us how important it is to conquer our fears in order to progress in life.

The young seagull did not jump off from the ledge because he was afraid that he would fall down and die. Once he tried to run towards the brink of the ledge but as he reached there, he stopped. He was scared because the ledge was too high above the sea. He also had a doubt that his wings would not support him and he would fall down. Like the young seagull, a human baby also finds such challenge when he or she takes its first steps.

14. 'Long Walk to Freedom' is an autobiography written by Nelson Mandela in which he has vividly described the jubilant scenes of the inauguration ceremony, his heart warming speech, his tribute to the freedom fighters, his childhood memories and his struggle for freedom.

Mandela's 'hunger for freedom' changed his life completely. It transformed a timid ( frightened ) young man into a bold one. It turned a law - abiding attorney into a criminal. Once the man who loved his family and lived with them peacefully now became homeless and lived in jungles like a monk. He became a rebellion and fought for the freedom of his people.

15. 'Mijbil the Otter' is written by Gavin Maxwell. When Gavin's dog Jonnie died, he decided to keep an otter as a pet. In this lesson, he has shared some funny incidents of Mijbil.

Maxwell's otter is named after Gavin Maxwell. He wrote about his experiences with an otter named Mijbil in his book. Because of his work and the bond he shared with the otter, the species got its name in his honour. Moreover, Mijbil's species was previously unknown to science. So, zoologists named it as Maxwell's otter to recognize Gavin Maxwell's contributions and love for the species.

16. Hyenas come with merry smiles.
17. We will identify the crocodile by its weeping.
18. Novice means beginner or the person who is new in the field.
19. (B)
20. (C)
21. 'The Ball Poem' written by John Berryman is about a little boy who has lost his favourite ball. He is learning the epistemology of loss with the help of this incident.

The poet says that the boy is learning from the loss of the ball. By the incident in which the boy loses the ball, he reflects a crucial moment in the boy's life. When the boy loses his favourite ball, he freezes there with grief. But the same event is also very important for him as he is learning the epistemology of loss. Epistemology of loss means the nature of loss and how person feel when he loses something dear or precious to him. He is also learning how to stand up after suffering a loss.

22. 'Amanda' is a beautiful poem written by Robin Klein. It describes problems of a teenage girl named Amanda whose mother keeps on nagging about little things.

Amanda is not an orphan but she is so annoyed by her mother that she wishes that she were an orphan. If she were an orphan, she would walk in the unknown streets barefooted. She would walk on soft sand and make beautiful patterns with her bare feet. She would roam ( wander ) freely and relish ( enjoy ) the sweet freedom.

23. The Fog ' is a beautiful short poem written by Carl Sandberg. In this poem he has beautifully described the arrival and exit of fog in the city.

The fog comes very slowly and silently like a cat. It covers everything under its thick blanket of smog. It sits silently like a cat and looks over the harbour and the city. It lingers there for a while as if inspecting how everything is going around the place.

24. 'Dust of Snow' is a beautiful short poem written by Robert Frost. In this poem he has beautifully described how a small event that seems insignificant can create a great impact in our lives.

Dust of snow refers to fine particles of snow. The poet, Robert Frost was standing under a hemlock tree. He had faced a bad day and was in a sad and depressive mood. Just then a sudden movement of a crow shook down snow from the branch. This incident instantly changed his mood. It uplifted his spirits and he felt that he had saved some part of the day that he had already held in regret.

25. 'For Anne Gregory' is a beautiful poem written by William Butler Yeats. In this poem, the poet is having a conversation with a beautiful girl named Anne Gregory on the topic of true love.

The poet William Butler Yeats has given a beautiful message through this poem. The poet and the girl with whom he is having conversation both believe that we should not love someone just because of his or her physical appearance or beauty. If we do so then that is not love, it is merely an attraction. We should love someone because of his or her inner beauty or qualities. True love is unbiased and unconditional and not limited to physical appearance.

Dear Diary,

It’s been two days since I saw you. I missed you a lot during my visit to my friend’s village. As you know I had gone to Radhanpur which is a small village between Halol and Pavagadh. So today, I’m going to tell you what we did there and how much we enjoyed.

My best friend Khushi had often told me how beautiful her village was. So when she invited me to join her to visit her village Radhanpur, I couldn’t resist. We went there on 18th August, Thursday, a day before Janmashtami. When our car entered the village, I was mesmerised by the natural beauty of the village. After taking lunch, we went to the farms owned by Khushi’s uncle. The green crop was fluttering and the breeze was cool and refreshing. How different it was from the polluted and noisy atmosphere of the city ! We visited the local market and bought some fresh fruits and vegetables to take home. We went to the river bank in the evening. We sat there talking on various subjects for almost two hours. At night, we enjoyed traditional village food : bajra roti and bhathu made from brinjal with buttermilk and jaggery.

On the day of Janmashtami, we woke up early, got ready and went to the temple of Lord Krishna situated near the river bank. A huge fair is organised every year on this auspicious day in front of the temple. We visited the fair at noon. The ground in front of the temple was full of colourful shops and stalls. There were different types of rides for kids and elders. There was also a magic show. We bought many things from the fair. We went around and saw everything. We were tired after walking too much so we enjoyed some food and drank lemonade before returning. We had a wonderful time at the fair. We left the village in the evening with sweet memories to cherish for a long time. While returning, we decided to visit the beautiful village again in summer vacation and stay at least for a week.

Yours truly,
Ravi

You : Good afternoon, everyone! My name is Tanisha, and I'm so glad to be here with all of you today.

Elderly Resident 1 : Welcome, Tanisha ! It's nice to have young students visit us.

You : Thank you. Well, I wanted to spend some time with you all, hear your stories, and maybe share a few laughs.

Elderly Resident 2 : Oh, dear, we've got plenty of stories ! I've lived through wars, seen the world change, and raised a family. Life has been quite an adventure.

You : That sounds fascinating ! Can you tell me about a memorable moment from your past ?

Elderly Resident 2 : Certainly ! Back in 1950, my wife and I took a trip to the Himalayas. It was like being in a dream. We held hands and promised to face life's challenges together.

Elderly Resident 3 : Life is full of ups and downs. But it's the people we meet along the way that make it worthwhile.

You : You're absolutely right. And what advice would you give to someone like me ?

Elderly Resident 3 : Well, my dear, cherish your loved ones and enjoy your life. Time flies faster than you think.

Elderly Resident 4 : And laughter ! Never underestimate the power of laughter. It's like medicine for the soul.

You : Thank you all for sharing your wisdom. I'll carry these lessons with me.

Shlok Kanzariya
School Report Team - X ( A )
28th February, 2025.

Yesterday on 28th February, our school celebrated the National Science Day. A science fair was organized in our school. All the teachers and students took part with great fervour and enthusiasm. Mr. Hitendra Padheria, D.E.O. of Ahmedabad was invited as the chief guest.

The science fair was full of exciting projects and experiments. Here's what I observed :

Robotics Display: This section had robots made by students. There were robots that could pick up objects, dance, and even play games. The students explained how they used coding to make the robots work.

Chemical Reactions : In this area, students showed different chemical reactions. I saw one experiment where mixing two liquids created a colourful explosion. It was very exciting !

Solar Power : Some students made projects on solar energy. They showed how solar panels can convert sunlight into electricity. It was interesting to see how we can use the sun's energy to power things.

Biology Section : Here, students displayed models of the human body. They explained how our organs work together to keep us healthy. There were also projects about plants and animals.

Physics Experiments: This section had experiments demonstrating physics principles. I saw a project on magnetism, where magnets moved objects without touching them. Another project explained how gravity works.

Overall, the science fair was very educational and fun. The students did a great job presenting their projects, and I learned a lot of new things. I can't wait for the next science fair!

Subject : About my experience of online education
Dear friend, I hope you're doing well! I wanted to share my experience with online education. At first, it was strange not to be in a classroom. I missed seeing my friends and teachers in person. But I soon got used to it. The best part is that I can study from the comfort of my home. No more early morning rush to school! One thing I love is that I can revisit recorded lessons. If I don't understand something, I can watch it again. That's something we can't do in a regular classroom. I also find that online tests are less stressful. I can take my time and answer at my own pace. However, there are some challenges. It can be hard to stay focused without a teacher watching over me. Sometimes, the internet connection isn't great, and I miss parts of the lesson. I also miss the fun of group activities and face-to-face discussions. Overall, online education has its pros and cons. It's different but also an interesting experience. How has your experience been? Let's catch up soon! Take care, Your best friend, Riya Prajapati

10th March, 2025.

Dear uncle,

How are you ? How is Manushi aunty ? How is everything going on ? Hope you are doing well. I am also fine here. Last week I visited Rani ki Vav situated at Patan with my classmates. I am sharing my experience in this letter.

Rani ki Vav is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and a true marvel of ancient Indian architecture. The stepwell is beautifully designed with seven levels and more than 800 elaborate sculptures. Our school had hired a professional guide to provide us information about the Vaav. He informed us that Rani ki Vav was built during the 11th century AD by Queen Udayamati, in memory of her husband, King Bhimdev I. It was built to solve the problem of scarcity of water faced by local people. As we went deeper and deeper in the step well, we were mesmerised by beautiful sculptures on the walls, pillars and galleries. The most beautiful sculptures was of 'Mahisasurmardini'. We took many photos of beautiful sculptures and carvings. We also took a group photo with our teachers.

It was not just an excursion trip ; it was a journey through time ! I request you to visit this beautiful place at least once.

Yours faithfully,
Mohit Sharma

57. Essay (A) Importance of Internet in Education

The internet has transformed the way we learn and teach. It makes education more accessible, engaging, and useful, especially in challenging times like the COVID-19 pandemic. Here's why the internet is so important for education :

Makes Subjects Easy and Interesting : With the internet, learning becomes fun. Students can watch videos, play educational games, and read interactive e-books. These resources explain complex topics in a simple and engaging way. Websites and apps provide quizzes and activities that help students understand and remember their lessons better.

Provides Wide Information : The internet is like a giant library that never closes. It has vast amounts of information on every subject imaginable. Students can find articles, research papers, tutorials, and more. This helps them explore topics beyond their textbooks and gain a deeper understanding. They can also connect with experts and access the latest research and innovations.

Very Helpful in Epidemic Situations : During the COVID-19 pandemic, schools were closed to keep the children safe. The internet allowed education to continue. Students could attend virtual classes, complete assignments, and take exams online. This ensured that their learning wasn't disrupted. Teachers could also share resources, conduct live sessions, and stay connected with their students.

In conclusion, the internet is a powerful tool that makes education more effective, engaging, and resilient. It has changed the way we learn and will continue to play a crucial role in the future of education.

57. Essay (B) Hard work has no option

Hard work is a key to success in any field. It is not just a choice but a necessity. Hard work lays the foundation for achieving goals. It helps you develop discipline, perseverance, and a strong work ethic. Without hard work, even the most talented individuals may not reach their full potential. Hard work teaches us valuable life lessons and prepares us to face challenges.

When you work hard, you gain skills and knowledge. It leads to personal growth and self-improvement. Hard work earns you respect and recognition from others. It also brings a sense of accomplishment and satisfaction. People who work hard are often more confident and resilient. The results of hard work are often rewarding. It can lead to achieving your dreams and goals. Hard work can result in academic success, career advancement, and financial stability. It opens doors to new opportunities and experiences. The sense of pride and achievement that comes from hard work is unmatched.

Without hard work, goals remain unattained, and dreams unfulfilled. Laziness and lack of effort lead to missed opportunities and stagnation. People who avoid hard work often struggle with self-doubt and lack of confidence. They may face difficulties in achieving success and maintaining a stable life.

In my view, hard work is essential for anyone who wants to succeed. It is not an option but a requirement. While talent and luck can play a role, hard work is the driving force behind real success. It shapes our character and determines our future.

In conclusion, hard work has no option. It is the key to unlocking our potential and achieving our goals. Embrace hard work, and you'll find that the rewards are well worth the effort.

57. Story

Title : The Perfect Shot

After teaching all the lessons in archery to Pandavas, Guru Dronacharya decided to take a test. He took all the students in a dense forest. There Guru Dronacharya selected a tall tree and placed a wooden bird on one of its bare branches. He called his students and challenged them to hit the bird in its eye.

First, Yudhisthir stepped forward. Dronacharya asked, "Can you see me?" Yudhisthir replied, "Yes, I can see you." Dronacharya asked him to put down his bow and step back. Each prince after Yudhisthir gave the same answer and was asked to retire from the competition. Finally, it was Arjuna's turn. He stepped up, focused, and took aim. Dronacharya asked him, "Arjuna, do you see me?"

Arjuna, with focus, replied, "I see only the bird set on the branch."

After a while he added, "Now I only see the eyes of the bird." At once Guru Dronacharya told Arjuna to release the arrow. With precision and skill, Arjuna released his arrow, hitting the wooden bird precisely in its eye. Dronacharya smiled, proud of Arjuna's concentration and determination.

The lesson was clear : true success comes from focus and determination.
