26. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow: [4]
(1+1+2)

The acceptance of the principle of linguistic states did not mean, however, that all states immediately became linguistic states. There was an experiment of ‘bilingual’ Bombay state, consisting of Gujarati- and Marathi-speaking people. After a popular agitation, the states of Maharashtra and Gujarat were created in 1960. In Punjab also, there were two linguistic groups: Hindi-speaking and Punjabi-speaking. The Punjabi-speaking people demanded a separate state. But it was not granted with other states in 1956. Statehood for Punjab came ten years later, in 1966, when the territories of today’s Haryana and Himachal Pradesh were separated from the larger Punjab state. Another major reorganisation of states took place in the north-east in 1972. Meghalaya was carved out of Assam in 1972. Manipur and Tripura too emerged as separate states in the same year. The states of Mizoram and Arunachal Pradesh came into being in 1987. Nagaland had become a state much earlier in 1963.

  - iii. India is a major economic power.
  - iv. India is a major military power.
21. Commons are those resources which are not owned by anyone but rather shared by a community. Similarly, there are some areas or regions of the world which are located outside the sovereign jurisdiction of any one state, and therefore require common governance by the international community. These are known as Global Commons. Hence, those areas which are situated beyond a sovereign jurisdiction of any one state and they need united control by the international community are called as global commons. Coordination over the global commons is difficult. There are some revolutionary agreements such as 1959 Antarctic Treaty, 1987 Montreal Protocol, and the 1991 Antarctic-Environmental Protocol.
- Examples of global commons in global context are :
- i. Earth's atmosphere
  - ii. Antarctica
  - iii. Ocean floor
  - iv. Outer space

OR

Oil creates political struggles involving industrialised countries because it is the resource which generates immense wealth. Countries adopt various methods to ensure steady flows of oil:

1. These included deployment of military process near exploitation sites and along sea lanes of communications.
2. The stockpiling of strategic resources.
3. By making favourable international agreements, they support multinational companies.

4. The history of petroleum is the history of war and struggle as the global economy relied on oil as a portable and indispensable fuel.
  5. It created conflict between Iraq and Saudi Arabia as Iraq's known reserves are second only to Saudi Arabia and since substantial portions of Iraqi territory are yet to be fully explored, there is a fair chance that actual reserves might be far larger.
22. ○ Economic Inequality:
Critics on the left argue that globalization represents a phase of global capitalism that increases wealth inequality, making the rich richer and the poor poorer. The weakening of the state reduces its ability to protect the interests of the poor.
- Weakening of State Sovereignty:
Both left and right critics fear that globalization weakens the state's capacity to govern effectively and protect its citizens' interests, leading to reduced state sovereignty.
- Economic Protectionism:
Critics on the right advocate for a return to self-reliance and protectionism, especially in certain economic sectors, to safeguard national interests.
- Cultural Erosion:
Cultural critics worry that globalization harms traditional cultures, leading to a loss of age-old values and ways of life as global influences overshadow local customs.

OR

Per capita income and population growth affect the economic disparity all over the world. High per capita income and low population growth make the rich countries get richer. On the other hand, per capita low income and high population growth make poor countries get poorer.

Ways to reduce economic disparity include:

- i. At the global level, the poor countries hit by this economic disparity will have to decrease population growth and increase the income.
  - ii. Countries affected by the economic disparity will have to make maximum use of their resources judiciously. They will have to strengthen their economic, political, social and cultural structures so as to bridge the gap of economic disparity.
23. The agreement between Rajiv Gandhi and Harchand Singh Longowal, the then President of the Akali Dal, as known as the Punjab Accord. The outcomes of Rajiv Gandhi-Longowal Accord were:
- i. It was agreed that Chandigarh would be transferred to Punjab.
  - ii. A separate commission will be set-up to resolve the border dispute between Punjab and Haryana.
  - iii. A tribunal would be set up to decide the sharing of Ravi-Beas river water among Punjab, Haryana, and Rajasthan.

iv. The agreement also provided for compensation to and better treatment of those affected by the militancy in Punjab and the withdrawal of the application of Armed Forces Special Powers Act in Punjab.

Ethnic Serbs opposed this and a massacre of non-Serbs Bosnians followed. The NATO intervention and the bombing of Yugoslavia followed inter-ethnic Civil war.

OR

The United States of Soviet Russia contained 15 constituent republics, it was formed on 30th December 1924 with the adoption of a federal Constitution. It was the largest country in terms of area. It was based on the principles of Communism. Following are its six characteristics in the time period of 20 years

- i. The USSR was federation only on a paper. In reality, it did not embrace the features of a federal system. The fifteen republics were denied autonomy and there was centralization of power around Russia. There was no such kind of power division that is seen in the Federation system.
  - ii. The Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) controlled the government and dominated the political decision-making. It strengthened the principle of democratic centralism which meant lack of dissent on the decisions of the upper party bodies. Thus, the single-party system was the norm. And all the major decisions were made by this party. No objection was accepted at any term.
  - iii. The most coloured feature of the Soviet system was the propagation of socialism to oppose the effects of capitalism, though later on it was abandoned ( Shock Therapy). The United States of Soviet Russia tried to propagate its ideology to the world but finally, it failed to make a remarkable impact about getting its ideology spread in the world.
  - iv. The Soviet economy was state-owned and state planned where the state was the owner of the means of production thus, there was an absence of private property.
  - v. The Soviet system was characterized by a complex communications network with vast energy resources like oil, iron, and steel. The state has a vast network of transportation to manufacture or transport goods to remotest areas.
  - vi. The Soviet system was based on state welfarism where the state was engaged in mass production to meet the needs of the people. Its main aim was the welfare of the public.
28. The EU was considered as highly influential because:
1. Economic Influence:
    - a. The EU has world's biggest economy with the GDP of more than $12 trillion in 2005, larger than that of the US.
    - b. The Euro, currency of EU, can pose a threat to the dominance of US Dollar.

c. It also functions as an important bloc in international economic organisations such as the World Trade Organisation (WTO).

2. Political Influence:

- a. Two members of the EU, Britain and France, hold permanent seats on the UN Security Council.
- b. The EU also included various non-permanent members of the UNSC.
- c. The European Union plays an influential role in diplomacy, economic investments, and negotiations except military force because of its dialogue with China on Human Rights and Environmental Degradation is remarkable.

3. Militarily Influence:

- a. The EU's combined armed forces are second largest in the world.
- b. Its total spending on defence is second after the US.
- c. Two EU important states members, Britain and France, also experience nuclear arsenals of 550 nuclear warheads.
- d. It is the world's second most important source of space and communications technology.

OR

Geographical proximity influences the formation of regional organisations because the countries of a region face similar problems. For example, before and after the Second World War, the South East Asian countries suffered the economic and political consequences of repeated colonialisms, both European and Japanese. There were common problems of nation-building, the ravages of poverty, economic backwardness and the pressure to join one bloc or the other during the Cold War. There was no informal cooperation and interaction. Thus, ASEAN was established by South East Asian countries. Similarly, the effects of the Second World War brought the West European states closer to each other. Marshall Plan, OEEC, Council of Europe, the European Economic Community, European Parliament and ultimately the European Union were various steps in this direction. If the European Union has succeeded in the creation of the European Parliament or to have a common currency i.e., Euro, it is due to their geographical proximity.

29. The Janta Dal:

The Janta Dal as a new political party emerged in October 1988 with the merger of the Janta Party, Lok Dal (B), Jana Morcha and the Congress (S). As the Congress party, the Janta Dal is an umbrella organization, it contained many anti-Congress groups.

The implication of this strategy is quite simple. Since the Janta Dal is part of the National Front alliance, it follows that the JD will not try to confront or build up its independent political base in those states where NF partners are in power.

Support Base:

The Janta Dal is essentially build-up to meet the demands of the people living in rural areas. It, therefore, inherits the same social base of the Lok Dal-that is of the agricultural class. The inclusion of Janta Party has considerably enlarged its regional and community base. It now had the support of middle castes as well.

The Janta Dal is clear about its caste base and its leader like Devilal has categorically upheld the AJGAR (Ahir-Jat-/Guj ar-Rajput) combination as the backbone of the Dal's political success. In this context, JD represents rich peasants and big landowners and in caste terms of Rajputs and Jats, particularly in north India.

Ideology and Programme:

The policies of the JD are neo-traditionalists; opposition to large scale industrialisation and revitalization of the countryside following Gandhian principles; and advocacy of decentralization of both the economy and political power, so as to meet the demands of the people living in rural areas.

The JD has promised to incorporate the right to work as a fundamental right in the Constitution. The JD manifesto also promises to put down communal riots firmly work for communal harmony, give statutory status to the Mandal Commission and improve a lot of the minorities.

In the first week of November 1990, there was a vertical split in the ruling Janta Dal. The split had been widely expected because of the usual bickerings, rivalries and the switch of loyalty by some members caused by toppling campaigns. A notable development towards the close of the year 1990 was the emergence of a new force formation of a Janta Dal Left Democratic Front to meet the challenges facing the country, to disgust communalism and safeguard the country's unity and integrity.

The following are the political issues that have affected India since 1989:

- End of Congress system and Era of coalition Governments started. The defeat of the Congress Party in the elections held in 1989 was the beginning of the trend of the coalition.
- New Economic reforms changed the whole scenario. (Open economy and FDI are the examples.)
- Polarization of votes started and BJP gained popularity.
- The rise of BJP with 'Hindutva' politics.
- Polarization of OBC votes due to implementation of Mandal Commission recommendations.
- Issue of Ram Mandir led to polarization of votes.
- Regional parties became effective in the National Politics.

30. Lok Sabha Elections, 1977:

- i. In January 1977, after eighteen months of Emergency, the government decided to hold elections. Accordingly, all the leaders and activists were released from jails. Elections were held in March 1977. This left the opposition with very little time, but political developments took place very rapidly. The major opposition parties had already been coming closer in the pre-Emergency period. Now they came together on the eve of the elections and formed a new party, known as the Janata Party. The new party accepted the leadership of Jayprakash Narayan. Some leaders of the Congress who were opposed to the Emergency also joined this new party. Some other Congress leaders also came out and formed a separate party under the leadership of Jagjivan Ram.
- ii. The Janata Party made this election into a referendum on the Emergency. Its campaign was focused on the non-democratic character of the rule and on the various excesses that took place during this period. In the backdrop of arrests of thousands of persons and the censorship of the press, the public opinion was against the Congress. Jayprakash Narayan became the popular symbol of the restoration of democracy. The formation of Janata Party also ensured that non-Congress votes would not be divided. It was evident that the going was tough for the Congress.

The factors leading to the declaration of internal emergency in India on June 25 1975, were:

- i. Economic factors: In the elections of 1971, Congress had given the slogan of 'Garibi Hatao' (remove poverty) but the promise had not been implemented. The economic condition of the people did not improve much after 1971-72. As a result of poor economic conditions, non-Congress opposition parties had started protests in different parts of the country.
- ii. Gujarat and Bihar movements: In 1974 the students in Gujarat and Bihar which were Congress-ruled states started agitation against rising prices and corruption in high places. The opposition parties too joined these protests. As a result of these agitations, elections were held in Gujarat, where Congress was defeated. In Bihar, the movement was guided by Jayprakash Narayan who tried to spread it to other parts of the country.
- iii. Conflict with Judiciary: In the meantime the relations between the executive and the judiciary strained due to appointment of Justice A.N.Ray as Chief Justice of India, ignoring three other senior judges. On 12 June 1975, Allahabad High Court declared the election of Indira Gandhi invalid. The above events set a stage for a big political confrontation which came on 25 June 1975, when at Ramlila ground, New Delhi, Jayprakash Narayan announced a nationwide satyagraha against Indira Gandhi. The same night she declared internal Emergency.
