SECTION-A READING SKILLS (20 MARKS)

1. Read the following text.

- (1) Globalisation is the way to open businesses, improve technological growth, economy, etc. at the international level for all countries. It is the way in which manufacturers and producers of the products or goods sell their products globally without any restriction. It provides huge profits to the businessmen as they get low cost labour in poor countries easily. It provides a big opportunity to the companies to deal with the worldwide market.
- (2) Globalisation helps to consider the whole world as a single market. Traders are extending their areas of business by treating the world as a global village. Earlier till the 1990s, there was a restriction on importing certain products which were already manufactured in India like agricultural products, engineering goods, food items and toiletries. However, during the 1990s there was a pressure from the rich countries on the poor and developing countries to allow them to spread their businesses by opening their markets. In India, the globalisation and liberalisation process was started in 1991.
- (3) After many years, globalisation brought about a major revolution in the Indian market when multinational brands came to India and started delivering a wide range of quality products at cheap prices. Prices of good quality products came down because of the cut-throat competition in the market.
- (4) Globalisation and liberalisation of the businesses in India have flooded the market with quality foreign product but has affected the local Indian industries adversely to a great extent resulting in the job loss to poor and uneducated workers. Globalisation has been a bonanza for the consumers, however, a loss to the small-scale Indian producers.
- (5) Globalisation has had some very positive effects on the Indian consumer in all sectors of society. It has affected the Indian students and education sector to a great extent by making study books and a lot of information available over the internet. Collaboration of foreign universities with the Indian universities has brought about a huge change in the field of education.

(6) Globalisation of trade in the agricultural sector has brought varieties of quality seeds which have disease resistance property. However, it is not good for the poor Indian farmers because the seeds and agricultural technologies are costly.

(7) It has brought about a huge revolution in the employment sector by the spread of businesses like cottage, handloom, carpet, artisan carving, ceramic, jewellery and glassware, etc.

2. Read the following text.

(1) The story of Joanne Kathleen Rowling's near magical rise to fame is almost as well known as the characters she creates.

(2) Rowling was constantly writing and telling stories to her younger sister Dianne. "The first story I ever wrote down was about a rabbit called Rabbit." Rowling said in an interview. "He got the measles and was visited by his friends including a giant bee called Miss Bee. And ever since Rabbit and Miss Bee, I have always wanted to be a writer, though I rarely told anyone so.

(3) However, my parents, both of whom come from impoverished backgrounds and neither of whom had been to college, took the view that my overactive imagination was an amusing personal quirk that would never pay a mortgage or secure a pension."

(4) A writer from the age of six, with two unpublished novels in the drawer, she was stuck on a train when Harry walked into her mind fully formed. She spent the next five years constructing the plots of seven books, one for every year of his secondary school life.

(5) Rowling says she started writing the first book, Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone, in Portugal, where she was teaching English.

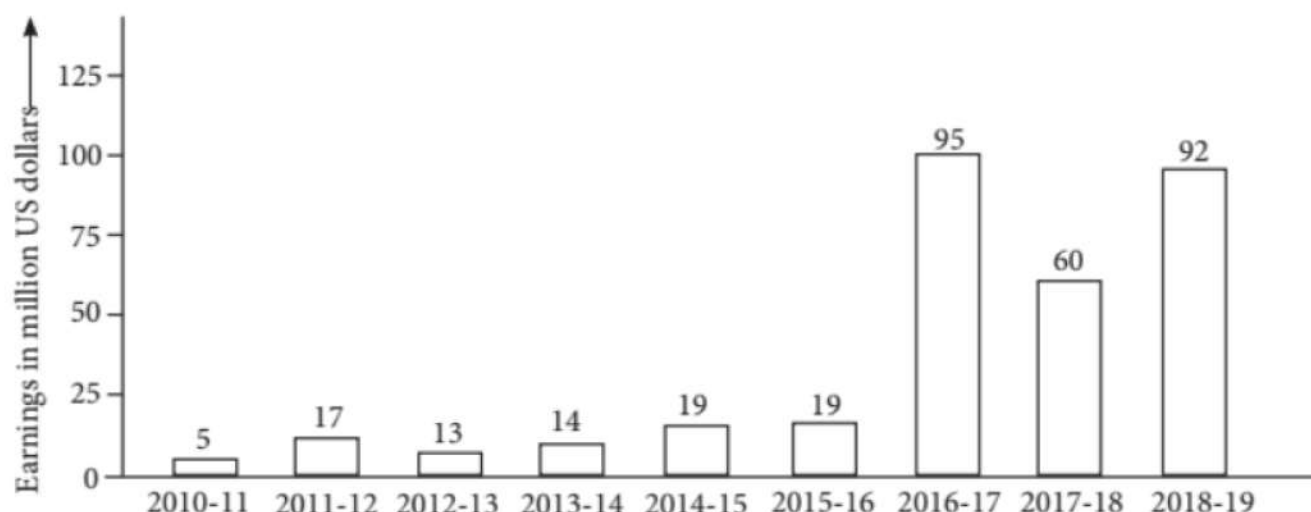

(6) At first, nobody wanted to publish Harry Potter. She was told the plot was too complex. Refusing to compromise, she found a publisher.

(7) In 1997 Rowling received her first royalty cheque. By book three, she had sky-rocketed to the top of the publishing world. A row of zeroes appeared on the author's bank balance and her life was turned upside down. Day and night, she had journalists knocking on the unanswered door of her flat.

(8) Rowling's quality control has become legendary as her obsession with accuracy. She's thrilled with Stephen Fry's taped version of the books and outraged that an Italian dust jacket showed Harry minus his glasses. "Don't they understand that the glasses are the clue to his vulnerability."

Annual earnings of J.K. Rowling from 2010 to 2019.

Sub: Need for Promoting Healthy Eating Routines

Dear Sir/Madam

This is with reference to the posters-bearing the message of 'crash diet' that are being posted around our school premises. Such posters impact the youngsters negatively and can be hazardous for their self-esteem and compel them to go on diets just to become thinner.

Through the columns of your esteemed newspaper, I would like to propose the idea of implementing "Wholesome Lunch Month" for all school students to counter the implications of such misleading advertisements. This initiative is sure to encourage all students to bring nutritious and healthy lunch every day and develop healthy eating routines. To ensure that this project gains strength, schools may organize puppet shows, street plays, Ted Talks (by Nutritionist/ Psychologist), encompassing the theme, to foster healthy eating routines and a positive body image. I hope that the publishing of my letter in the columns of your renowned daily, helps spread awareness and promotes a healthy lifestyle among students.

Yours truly
Sunidhi Prakash
(Vice-Captain)

5. A. The given line graph shows the number of athletes who participated in different types of games. The number of participants is in hundreds and their participation in five different games. The athletes who participated the least are in 400 m race, where only 1500 people chose it. Next preferred game is long jump where the number of participants went slightly higher taking the count to 2000. The participants of javelin throw comes next levelling off with 2500 participants. Two most preferred games are discuss throw and shot put. Discuss throw shows a hike of 1000 participants and levelling off at 3000 athletes playing it. Shot put is the most preferred game with most number of participants which is 4000. The given data which showcased the interest of athletes in different games, shows us that the most preferred game is shot put and the least preferred is 400 m race. Rest of the three games have an average difference of 500 participants.

To conclude, the given graph has helped us in understanding the games preference of around 4000 athletes in five different games.

5. B. India is known to be one of the most unsafe places for a woman to live in. The statistics alone is staggering. Crime against women especially sexual violence is quite high and frequent. Concerns about safety restrict the mobility and activity of women and leave them with no choice but to strategise everything from timings to travel, how to walk, how to dress or commute. When we talk about women's safety, the biggest question is how do we keep our mothers, sisters and daughters safe against violence outside the house. Women are often stared at, molested and discriminated against. Not only outside the house, they are even discriminated against at the workplace and in their homes. It is surely the responsibility of the government and each one of us to strive for a safer world for women. Effective implementation of strict laws protecting women's rights is the need of the hour. Offenders must be socially boycotted and severely punished to deter future crimes against women. Another imperative step is teaching self- defense techniques to women and girls at schools, colleges, offices and residential colonies. As long as the mindset of people will not change, women can never be safe. All we need to do is to be alert and considerate.

We have to develop basic morality and nurture a value system that teaches respect for women. Women are not safe anywhere in the globe until the thinking towards women changes. So the actual need of the hour is a revolutionary change in the mindsets and conscience of men so that they view women with regard and respect.

6. A. i. satirise the superficiality of the upper class in Russian society

ii. Because Lomov's status in society supersedes everything.

iii. Natalya is the twenty-five years old daughter of Chubukov. She is well educated, good looking, yet unmarried. She is an excellent housekeeper and estate manager. However, she is extremely quarrelsome, fussy and proud. She engages on an argument of owning Oxen Meadows and in the another argument over whose dog is superior than the other.

iv. B. He followed the trial closely and was seen in court everyday.

OR

B. i. C. Option 3

ii. C. Dr. Smith always served tea as a refreshment when he has guests, as they all enjoyed this beverage.

iii. Medicine is used for treating diseases whereas beverage is used for drinking purpose. Tea was drunk first in China only in the sixteenth century.

iv. He was amused and tickled at what Rajvir shared.

7. A. i. C. Prey that has quenched its thirst ensures consumption of hydrated meat for the tiger.

ii. B. The hyena was _____ in its den after a good meal.

iii. The poet wishes for the tiger to be 'sliding' through the foliage as this would assist in keeping the prey unsuspecting of the predator's sound.

iv. the water hole.

OR

B. i. It emphasises that an unexpected noise was heard.

ii. sanctuary and refuge

iii. A hyperbole is a literary device where the poet/speaker purposely exaggerates to an extreme. In the line, "Belinda giggled till she shook the house", there is hyperbole.

iv. A. Dragons are brave and feared.

8. i. Mr Keesing thrice gave Anne a writing job on her talkative nature. On all the three occasions she came out successful. In the third attempt the ball fell on the teacher and he became her victim. Finding himself unsuccessful, he allowed Anne to talk in the class.

ii. The postmaster could raise only 70 pesos which he sent to Lencho, supposedly from God. Lencho was angry to find 30 pesos less than the amount he asked for. He was angry because he thought the post office employees had kept 30 pesos sent to him by God.

iii. Before he had come across the sick man, the aged man, the funeral procession and the monk begging for alms, during his hunting expedition, Prince Siddhartha Gautama lived a life of comfort, unaware of the sufferings of the world. After he chanced upon those sufferings, Siddhartha Gautama left his comfortable life at the palace and wandered off into the world seeking enlightenment, concerning the sorrows he had witnessed.

iv. There are many ways to recognise a baker. A traditional baker always carries a bamboo staff, which he.... bangs on the road, thus creating a thud and jingle sound. It is the way he announces his arrival. They can also be recognised by their traditional attire called Kabai. It is a single piece long frock, which reaches down to their knees.

V. While they were in London, Mijbil developed some compulsive habits. Like children on their way to school, Mijbil would place his feet squarely on the centre of each pair of block or touch the iron railing or lamp post. Especially while coming back home, Mijbil would tug his owner to the wall of a primary school, jump on to it, and gallop the full length of its thirty yards.

9. i. The first guess made by Think-Tank about the books found on Earth is that they are sandwiches meant to be eaten. Next, he says that the books are communication sandwiches, which the humans listen to and not eat. At last, Think-Tank says the communication sandwiches (the books) are not meant for ears but for eyes.

ii. Matilda had lost the precious diamond necklace she had borrowed from her friend. Since the necklace could not be retrieved, it had to be replaced with another equally expensive necklace. Her husband had to borrow a huge amount of money apart from using up his entire life's saving to buy the necklace. In order to pay off the debt money, Matilda had to change her lifestyle.

iii. Richard Ebright discovered an unknown insect hormone, which indirectly also led to his new theory on the life of cells. Another significant contribution Richard Ebright made to the world of Science is when he discovered the chemical composition of cells and how the cell reads the blueprint of DNA. The theory might lead to new ideas for preventing some types of cancer, etc.

10. A. Title: Long Live Humanity In 'A Letter to God,' firm faith in God of a poor farmer and helpfulness of the Post office employees are aptly depicted. In today's world, where people mock religion and religious beliefs, where people have lost their faith in God, where people don't believe in the existence of the Almighty, Lencho's firm faith in God comes as quite an encouragement. To think and believe that even when all hope is lost, we can still turn to God for help, it gives us hope and strength to carry on in adverse situations. This is what happened with Lencho. He was absolutely sure that only God could help him get through his difficult times and that is why Lencho dared to ask God to send him money. The other aspect of the story 'A Letter to God' is the random act of kindness shown by the postmaster and post office employees towards Lencho. The postmaster didn't want Lencho's firm faith in God to be shaken. So, he decided to not only reply to his letter as God but also raise the money for Lencho with the help of others. The friends of the postmaster and the employees of the post office didn't know Lencho personally. Yet, they readily contributed to his cause. This is proof that humanity still exists and not all are inhuman and selfish. One feels motivated by this to help others in need and expect nothing in return.

B. Siddhartha Gautama was born in a royal family. At an appropriate age, after he had completed his education, prince Siddhartha married a princess and they had a son. For twenty-five years, the prince lived a charmed life as befitted royalty. During this time, he was completely unaware of the sufferings of the world. One day, while he was out for hunting, the prince came across, by chance, first a sick man, then an aged man, then a funeral procession and finally a monk begging for alms. Extremely moved by what he saw, prince Siddhartha gave up his comfortable life and went out into the real world. He sought enlightenment related to the sorrows he had witnessed. After wandering for seven years, prince Siddhartha sat down under a peepal tree. He made a promise to himself to sit under the same tree until he was enlightened. Seven days later, when he gained the high spiritual knowledge, he renamed the tree Bodhi Tree. He began to teach and share his newly acquired wisdom and understandings. At that point, he came to be known as the Buddha or the Enlightened One.

11. A. Certainly, a calm mind can help us to tackle the most difficult situations. If Ausable had panicked and did something fishy and dicey, then Max probably would have killed him. But Ausable kept his cool. With his calm mind, he fabricated a believable story of a balcony outside his room. He used the knock made by room service in his favour by telling Max that he had called police for protection of the documents. Ausable dealt with the situation using alertness of mind and acting promptly and smartly. In real life too we should always focus and keep calm in difficult and unexpected situations and not panic because such actions can hamper our thinking. If we keep our mind cool and focused, then only can we find ways to get out of crunch situations.

B. "Put the fear out of your heart and you will be able to speak to anyone else." The words of encouragement from the teacher highlight that change of social attitude and encouragement can help a child like Bholi to become confident and face the world bravely. However, this was not always the case with Bholi. Throughout her childhood, Bholi had to face many difficulties. She was considered a 'dumb cow' by everybody including her family members. Bholi had remained a backward child ever since she was just ten months old. She had fallen on her head and a part of her brain got damaged. An attack of small pox had left deep black pock marks on Bholi's entire body except eyes, when she was only two years old. The pock marks remained with her all her life. To add to the little girl's misery, Bholi learned to speak at the age of five. But her speech was not clear as she stammered. She became the laughing stock for other children. As a result, she kept quiet most of the time. When the utterly neglected Bholi was sent to school, her teacher changed the course of Bholi's life, she changed the quality of Bholi's life by encouraging, inspiring and showering Bholi with much deserved love and compassion. To help children who are mentally/physically challenged they should be treated with love, care and sympathy as doing so can really work wonders. Kind words, demonstration of love and affection, a sympathetic pat help them gain confidence, enable them to believe in themselves and compete with others, and ultimately help them become socially acceptable. Such children need social, parental attention and encouragement so that they come out of their complex.
