Meaning and Need of Bank Reconciliation Statement

Objectives

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand the following concepts.

- Meaning of Cash Book and Pass Book/Bank Statement
- How banking transactions are recorded
- Reasons for mismatches between the two books (Cash Book and Pass Book)
- Meaning and Needs of Bank Reconciliation Statement

Till now, we have observed that the Bank Column of a Cash Book is used to record all the banking transactions of a business. In today's world, it is a very common to deposit cash and cheques received and to make payments through bank. These transactions are recorded in the customers account by the bank. This detailed list of transactions in form of a statement is given to customer for their reference and is known as Bank Pass Book or Bank Statement.

As the same transactions are recorded in both the books- Cash Book and Pass Book, so their closing balance are usually same but there may be chances that two balances are in contrast. This variance may be due to various reasons (discussed in the subsequent lessons). Thus, in order to match the balances of both the books, we prepare a statement termed as Bank Reconciliation Statement.

Meaning of Cash Book

As we already know that a Cash Book is a summary of all cash and bank transactions entered by a business during an financial year. Cash Book consists of two columns- Cash and Bank. The Bank Column of the Cash Book records all the banking transactions of the business.

Meaning of Pass Book / Bank Statement

Pass Book is a copy of the Ledger Account maintained by the Bank to record the transactions of its clients. Each customer is issued a separate Pass Book by his/her bank. The credit side of the Pass Book shows receipts of the clients, on the other hand, its debit side shows withdrawals or payments made by the clients.

Bank Account is a Personal Account which follows the rule of "Debit the receiver; Credit the giver". Thus, when money is deposited into bank, Bank Account is debited as bank is the receiver and the bank credits the customer's account as the customer is the giver. That is why; the credit side of the Pass Book represents the receipts of customers'.

How Banking Transactions are recorded

Banking transactions are recorded by the following two ways.

- (1) Deposits transactions: The deposit of a cheque is recorded on the debit side Bank column of the Cash Book by the client, on the other hand, the bank increases its client's account by recording the deposit on the credit side of the client's account. Thus, all such receipts which are shown on the debit side of the Cash Book are credited to the client's account in the Pass Book.
- (2) Withdrawals/Payments transactions: The withdrawal or payments through cheques are recorded by the client on the credit side Bank column of his/her Cash Book. On the other hand, bank reduces the client's account by recording the withdrawals on the debit side of the client's account. Therefore, payments are recorded on the debit side of the Pass Book.

Therefore, it can be concluded from above discussion that all entries of Cash Book and Pass Book are more or less same but debit entries of Cash Book are shown on the credit side of Pass Book and vice versa.

At what time Transactions are recorded in the books (Cash Book and Pass Book) Timing of recording transactions in the Cash Book and in the Pass Book need not to be necessarily the same. This is because in Cash Book, we record transactions at the time of their occurrence, whereas, in the Pass Book, transactions are recorded when cheque is cleared by the bank. For example, cheque issued to a supplier is recorded on the credit side of the Cash Book on the date when it is issued. However, in the Pass Book, this cheque is recorded on the debit side of customer's account on the date when cheque is presented as well as cleared by bank.

Meaning of the Bank Reconciliation Statement (BRS)

BRStatement is prepared to match the differences in the two balances- Bank balance as per Cash Book and Bank balance as per Pass Book/Bank Statement on a particular date. It is a statement that lists out the reasons of such differences between the two books and also facilitate to reconcile these differences.

Need of Bank Reconciliation Statement

BRS is required as a result of the following factors.

- (1) It helps in figuring out those mistakes which lead to a mismatch in the balance of the Cash Book or Pass Book.
- (2) The reasons which caused the above mentioned mistakes are also revealed while preparation of Bank Reconciliation Statement.
- (3) It reflects accuracy of transactions entered in the cash book and also maintains list of uncleared cheques.
- (4) It shows true bank balance and also reduces chances of small frauds committed by employees.

Causes of Difference

Objectives

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand the reasons that cause differences between Bank Balance of Cash Book and Pass Book Balance.

Introduction

In the previous lesson, we gained an understanding about the basic concepts involved in the Bank Reconciliation Statement (BRS). Now we'll try and comprehend the reasons causing difference between the Bank Balance of Cash Book and Pass Book Balance.

Reasons of Differences between Bank Balance of Cash Book and Pass Book Balance

A. Recording transactions at different point of time: Whenever, a cheque is received from a debtor or any other person, then it is recorded immediately on the debit side of the Cash Book (that is, Cash Book Balance stands increased). On the Other hand, bank will increase the customer's account only at the time when it receives money from the other party. Similar to this, when a cheque is issued to a supplier, then it is recorded immediately, but the bank will record this at the time of making payment for that cheque. Thus, due as the recording in the two books is done at the two books.

- B. Certain transactions recorded by bank: There are certain transactions such as Bank Interest or Bank Charges or direct deposits by a party in the customer's bank account which are recorded by bank on its own in the customer's account (without customer's knowledge). The customer gets to know about them when he/she updates his Pass Book with the bank or he/she receives the account statement from bank. Thus, this reason also account for the difference between Cash Book balance and the Bank Pass Book balance.
- C. Clerical mistakes: Although, bank takes a due care in recording transactions in its customer's account, yet, there exists probability, where clerical mistakes happen. Similarly, a customer may also commit such mistakes at the time of preparing his/her Cash Book. Instances such as, recording wrong amount and carry forwarding wrong balance are a few examples of clerical mistakes.

Let's understand above differences in details with an example.

A. Recording Transactions at different point of time

1) Cheque issued but not yet presented for payment: Whenever, a cheque is issued to a supplier (or to any other person) for making any payment, then it is recorded immediately on the credit side of the Cash Book. However, bank records this by debiting customer's account after the cheque is presented for payment and gets cleared. Hence, the difference in the time of recording of transaction causes the bank balances of the two books mismatched.

🕀 www.studentbro.in

Example: Amar Singh's Cash Book balance and Pass Book balance as on March 01, 2014 are same say, Rs 20,000. Now, on March 27, 2014 Amar Singh issued a cheque of Rs 5,000 to Jolly Singh. But due to busy schedule, Jolly Singh presented this cheque for clearance to his bank on April 01, 2014. Now, can you imagine what would be Amar Singh's Cash Book and Pass Book positions on March 31, 2014? It would be as shown below.

Dr.	(Cash Book (Bank Column)
Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)	Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)

2014 March 31	Balance c/d	20,000	2014 March 01	Balance b/d	20,000
		20,000			20,000

On March 31, 2014 there is a difference in the balances of the two books by Rs 5,000 (i.e. 20,000 – 15,000). Here, the Pass Book balance (20,000) is greater than that of Cash Book (15,000) by Rs 5,000. This is because of the cheque so issued of Rs 5,000 to Jolly Singh. This cheque was immediately recorded in the Cash Book causing the Cash Book Balance to stand reduced at Rs 15,000. On the other hand, bank has not recorded this cheque till March 31, 2014 as this cheque was not presented for payment till then. Therefore, Pass Book balance stood at Rs 20,000.

2) Cheque deposited into Bank but not Cleared or Credited or Cashed by Bank: Whenever a cheque is received from any debtor (or party), then it is recorded immediately on the debit side of the Cash Book. However, bank records this by increasing customer's account at the time when it collects money for that cheque. So, there exists a difference between Cash Book and Pass Book balance.

Example: Sanjay Deshmukh's Cash Book balance and Pass Book balance on September 01, 2013 are same say, Rs 15,000. Now, Sanjay received a cheque of Rs 6,000 from Dev Saluja and deposited it into the Bank on September 28, 2013. However, cheque got cleared on October 05, 2013. Now imagine what would be Sanjay Deshmukh's Cash Book and Pass Book positions on September 30, 2013. This is shown below.

Dr.		Cr.

Septer	Dananee ey a	15,000	Sopror	Dalance Sy a	15,000

Thus, on September 30, 2013, there is a difference in the balances of the two books by Rs 6,000 (i.e. 21,000 – 15,000). Here, the Cash Book balance (21,000) is greater than that of the Pass Book (15,000) by Rs 6,000 because of the cheque of Rs 6,000. This cheque was immediately recorded in the Cash Book causing the Cash Book balance to stand increased at Rs 21,000. On the other hand, bank has not cleared this cheque till September 30, 2013 as they have not realised the amount of this cheque till then. Therefore, the Pass Book balance stood at Rs 15,000 on Sept 30, 2013.

B. Certain Transactions recorded by Bank

1) Charges/Interest debited by Bank: Bank provides various facilities to its customers such as overdraft facility, cheque book, debit card, credit card, ATM facilities, locker facilities, etc. For this, it generally charges few charges termed as interest, commission, bank charges. These charges are directly debited from the customer's account causing a reduction in his/her bank balance. As far as the Cash Book is concerned, such charges are recorded in the Cash Book at the time when the customer gets a copy of his/her bank statement. Till that time, the exists difference in the balances of the two Books continues to exist.

Example: Atul Midha Cash Book balance and Pass Book balance on January 01, 2013 is Rs 10,000. Now, on January 28, 2013, bank charges of Rs 1,000 were charged by the bank. Now, imagine what would be Atul Midha's Cash Book and Pass Book positions on January 30, 2013. It would be like this:

Dr.		Cash Book (Bank Column)
Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)	Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)
2013			2013

		10,000			10,000

On January 31, 2013, there is a difference in two books balances by Rs 1,000 (i.e. 10,000 – 9,000). Here, the Pass Book balance (9,000) is lesser than Cash Book balance (10,000) by Rs 1,000 because of the bank charges of Rs 1,000. These bank charges were duly recorded in the Pass Book but not in the Cash Book.

2) Interest/Dividend collected by Bank on behalf of its Customer: At times, bank collects interest or dividends on behalf of their customers or as per their Standing Instructions and credits the customer's account. Due to occurrence of such transactions, customer's account balance gets immediately increased. However, the customer records such transactions in his/her Cash Book only when it comes to his/her knowledge (i.e. either the bank informs the customer about this or sends an updated copy of bank statement). Till that time, the Pass Book balance stands increased as compared to Cash Book balance.

Example: Rajesh Talwar's Cash Book balance and Pass Book balance as on May 01, 2013 stand to be Rs 12,000. On May 29, bank credited dividend of Rs 1,200 directly in Rajesh Talwar's Account as per his standing instructions. Now imagine the positions of his Cash Book and Pass Book on May 31, 2013.

May 31	Balance c/d	13,200	May 29	Dividend	1,200
		13,200			13,200

On May 31, 2013, there is a difference in the balances of the two books by Rs 1,200 (i.e. 13,200 – 12,000). Here, the Pass Book balance (13,200) is higher than that of Cash Book (12,000) by Rs 1,200 because of directly crediting of the dividend of Rs 1,200 by Bank in Rajesh Talwar's Account. This dividend was recorded in the Pass Book but not in the Cash Book. Hence, the difference remained.

3) Direct Payments on behalf of Customer by Bank: There are certain payments such as insurance premium, loan instalment, etc. made by bank on the behalf of its customer as per their instructions. So, whenever bank makes such payments it debits customer's account immediately, whereas, the customer records the same in his/her Cash Book only when it comes to his/her knowledge. This accounts for the differences between the two balances.

Example: Mohit Pahwa's Cash Book balance and Pass Book balance on June 01, 2013 are same, say, Rs 6,000. On June 29, 2013, his bank paid Insurance Premium of Rs 1,200 as per standing instructions. Thus, on June 30, 2013, the positions of his Bank Pass book and his Cash Book would be same as presented below.

Dr.		Cr.
Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)	Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)
2013 June 01	Balance b/d	6,000 6,000	2013 June 30	Balance c/d	6,000 6,000

Dr.	Pass Boo	Cr.

June 29	Insurance Premium	1,200	June 01	Balance b/d	6,000
June 30	Balance c/d	4,800
		6,000			6,000

On June 30, 2013, there is a difference in the balances of the two books by Rs 1,200 (i.e. 6,000 – 4,800). Here, the Pass Book balance (4,800) is lower than Cash Book balance (6,000) by Rs 1,200 because of the premium amount (of Rs 1,200) so paid by the bank directly as per the customer's instructions. Thus, it is recorded on the debit side of the Pass Book in the Mohit Pahwa's Account. Hence, as the premium amount is recorded in the Pass Book but not in the Cash Book on June 30, 2013, so there exists a difference between the two books.

4) Amount directly deposited into the Bank by Debtors: Whenever, debtors deposit their due amount directly into the client's (customer's) account, the the balance of the customer's account gets immediately increased. However, the customer records this in his/her Cash Book only at the time when this comes to his/her knowledge. Thus, till that time, the difference in the two books continues to exist.

Example: Ajay Gupta's Cash Book balance and Pass Book balance as on July 01, 2013 stand to be Rs 20,000. On July 27, 2013, one of its debtors directly deposits his dues of Rs 5,000 in the Ajay's bank account. Thus, due to this transaction, as on July 31, 2013, there arises a difference between Ajay Gupta's Cash Book and his Pass Book. This is shown below.

Dr.		Cr.
Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)	Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)

July 31	Balance c/d	25,000	July 27	Debtor	5,000
		25,000			25,000

On July 31, 2013, there is a difference in two books balances by Rs 5,000 (25,000 – 20,000). Here, the Pass Book balance (25,000) is higher than that of the Cash Book (20,000) by Rs 5,000 due to the direct deposit made by one of the debtors.

5) Dishonour of Bill discounted with Bank: In case, a Bill of Exchange discounted with the Bank gets dishonoured, then bank will debit its customer's account with the bill amount along with charges (if any). This reduces the bank balance by the amount of the bill. However, the customer will record the same only when it comes to his/her knowledge.

Example: Rajiv Sachdeva's Cash Book Balance and Pass Book Balance on August 01, 2013 is Rs 25,000. On August 28, 2013 one of the Bill discounted with the Bank of Rs 2,000 gets dishonoured. Bank Charged Rs 500 for this. Rajiv Sachdeva's Cash Book and Pass Book positions on August 31, 2013 would be like this:

Dr.		Cash Book (Bank Column)			Cr.
Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)	Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)

	Bank Charges	500
Aug 31	Balance c/d	22,500
		25,000			25,000

On Aug 31, 2013 there is a difference in two books balances by Rs 2,500 (25,000 – 22,500). Here Pass Book Balance (22,500) is lower than Cash Book balances (25,000) by Rs 2,500 this is because of dishonour of discounted bill of Rs 2,000 and charges for the dishonour Rs 500. These are debited in the Pass Book by the Bank but not recorded in the Cash Book.

6) Dishonour of Cheque deposited with Bank: In case any Cheque deposited into Bank gets dishonoured then Bank will debit its Customer Account with amount of Cheque along with some dishonor charges(if any). This will result in reducing Bank Balance by amount of Cheque and Charges (if any). However Customer record this in the Cash Book only at the time when this come to his knowledge.

Example: Anil Relhan Cash Book Balance and Pass Book Balance on February 01, 2013 is Rs 8,000. On February 24, 2013 a cheque of Rs 4,000 was deposited in the Bank but on February 26 this Cheque was dishonoured. Now can you imagine what would be Anil Relhan's Cash Book and Pass Book positions on February 28, 2013. It would be like this:

Dr.	C	Cr.

Feb 28	Balance c/d	8,000	Feb 24	Debtor	4,000
		12,000			12,000

On Feb 28, 2013 there is a difference in two books balances by Rs 4,000 (12,000 – 8,000). Here Pass Book Balance (8,000) is lower than Cash Book balances (8,000) by Rs 4,000 this is because of dishonour of Cheque of Rs 4,000. This is debited in the Pass Book by the Bank but not recorded in the Cash Book.

C. Clerical Mistakes: Clerical mistakes in recording any amount or posting or carry forwarding any balance either by Customer in the Cash Book or by Bank in the Pass Book causes difference in the two books balances.

Example: Ankush Goyal Cash Book Balance and Pass Book Balance on November 01, 2013 is Rs 18,000. On November 27, 2013, Ankush issue cheque of Rs 5,400 to its Supplier but it was credited wrongly by Rs 4,500 in the Cash Book. However, Supplier has presented this cheque on same day and correctly recorded in the Pass Book by bank. The positions of Ankush Goyal's Cash Book and Pass Book as on November 30, 2013 would be like this.

Dr.	Pass	Cr.
Date	Particulars	ars Amount Date Particulars (Rs)		Amount (Rs)
2013 Nov 27 Nov 30	Supplier A/c Balance c/d	5,400 12,600	2013 Nov 01	Balance b/d	18,000
		18,000			18,000

On Nov 30, 2013 there is a difference in two books balances by Rs 900 (13,500 – 12,600). Here Pass Book Balance (12,600) is lower than Cash Book balance (13,500) by Rs 900 this is because of Cheque issued to Supplier of Rs 5,400 was credited with Rs 4,500 in the Cash Book. Therefore, Cash Book shows lesser payment made to Supplier by Rs 900 (5,400 – 4,500). However Pass Book has been correctly debited with Rs 5,400. Hence, Clerical errors can also cause differences in the balances between two Books.

Omissions in Cash Book: As the name depicts, there might be a case when the cashier forgets to enter a transaction in the Cash Book which creates differences in the Balances of Cash Book and Pass Book.

Example: Abhishek Chaudhuri's Cash Book Balance and Pass Book Balance on February 01, 2013 is Rs 20,000. On February 27, 2013, Abhishek unintentionally forgot to record issue of cheque of Rs 6,400 to its Supplier in the Cash Book. However, Supplier has presented this cheque on same day and was correctly recorded in the Pass Book by bank. The positions of Abhishek Chaudhuri's Cash Book and Pass Book positions on February 28, 2013 would be like this:

Dr.	Cash Book (Bank Column)	Cr.

Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)	Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)
2013			2013
Feb 01	Balance b/d	20,000
			Feb 30	Balance c/d	20,000
		20,000			20,000

Dr.	Pass Bo	Cr.
Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)	Date	Particulars	Amount (Rs)
2013 Nov 27 Nov 30	Supplier A/c Balance c/d	6,400 13,600	2013 Nov 01	Balance b/d	20,000
		20,000			20,000

On Feb 30, 2013, there is a difference in two books balances by Rs 6,400 (20,000 – 13,600). Here Pass Book Balance (13,600) is lower than Cash Book balance (20,000) by Rs 6,400 this is because of Cheque issued to Supplier of Rs 6,400 which was omitted to be recorded in the Cash Book. Therefore, Cash Book shows no payment made to Supplier by Rs 6,400. However Pass Book has been correctly debited with Rs 6,400. Hence, omissions in cash book can also cause differences in the balances between two Books.

Steps for the Preparation of BRS

Objectives

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand the following concepts.

- Format of Bank Reconciliation Statement
- Steps to Prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement

Introduction

We have gained a basic understanding about Pass Book and Cash Book, the reasons or causes because of which differences arise between the Balance of Bank and Cash Book, now we shall try to move forward and learn the presentation of a Bank reconciliation statement along with the steps that have to be followed in order to prepare a bank reconciliation statement.

Format of Bank Reconciliation Statement:

Particulars	Amount (Rs)
-------------	----------------

Balance as per Cash Book/ Balance as per Pass Book (Given Book)	xxx

	XXX
Less: Transactions which have caused decrease in the balance of Other Book	xxx
Balance as per Pass Book/ Balance as per Cash Book (Other Book)	XXX

(II) Bank Reconciliation Statement can also be presented as:

Note: Transactions which are added when the starting balance is as per Cash Book will be subtracted when the starting balance is taken as per Pass Book and vice versa. Thus, it can be concluded that the treatment of transactions is totally opposite in case of Cash Book and Pass Book.

'Given Book' here means Cash Book or Pass Book whose balance is considered as the Starting Balance for preparing Bank Reconciliation Statement. While the 'Other Book' represents whose balance is determined by taking into account various transactions.

Steps to Prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement:

- 1. Firstly, we try and identify which balance (Cash Book or Bank Pass Book) is given in the question. This balance would be taken as the starting point of the Statement.
- 2. This Starting Balance is written in the Bank Reconciliation Statement.
- 3. Check each transaction and identify whether they should be added or deducted to/ from the Starting Balance. If any transaction increases the other Book Balance then it should be shown as addition to Starting Balance under Plus Items. On the other hand, if any transaction decreases the other Book Balance then it should be shown as deduction to Starting Balance under the minus items.
- 4. After taking into account all the transactions we shall calculate the final balance. This final balance represents Balance of Other Book.

Favourable Balance as per Cash Book and Examples

Objective

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand how to prepare Bank Reconciliation Statements when favourable balance as per Cash Book is given.

Introduction

Favourable Balance as per Cash Book means Debit Balance of Bank Column of Cash Book. In other words, when Debit side of the Bank Column of Cash Book is more than its credit side, then the balancing figure reflects the Debit Balance (or the Favourable balance) of the Cash Book. This can be diagrammatically presented in the following figure.

On any given date, we compare this (Debit balance of) Cash Book balance with the (Credit Balance of) Pass Book balance. However, in case there is a mismatch between the balances, then for locating the reasons of mismatch, we prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement on that particular date. With the preparation of this statement, we can reconcile the balances of the two books.

Preparation of Bank Reconciliation Statements when Favourable balance as per Cash Book is given:

Example 1 Prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement of Garg Traders from the given information as on January 31, 2013:

- (1) Debit Balance as per Bank Column of Cash Book Rs 20,000
- (2) Cheques of Rs 2,500 issued to creditors but these were not presented till January 31, 2013.
- (3) Bank charged interest of Rs 500.
- (4) One of the debtors deposited Cash of Rs 1,000 directly in the bank.
- (5) Payment of Rs 1,200 recorded twice in the Cash Book.

- (6) Bank collected interest on investments of Rs 800 on behalf of Garg Traders.
- (7) Cheques of Rs 3,000 were deposited in the bank but out of this bank have realised only Rs 1,600 till January 31, 2013.
- (8) Bank by mistake has credited Rs 600.
- (9) Bank has paid Insurance Premium of Rs 1,200 as per standing instructions.

Example 2 Comparing Naveen's Cash Book with his Bank Statement for the month of March, 2013 following points were identified:

- (1) Cash Book showed a Debit Balance of Rs 30,000.
- (2) Cheques of Rs 1,200, Rs 1,500, Rs 2,000 and Rs 1,600 were paid into the Bank. Out of these Bank has collected only cheque of Rs 1,200 and Rs 1,600.
- (3) Bank debited Account with Rs 200 as Bank Charges.
- (4) As per instructions Bank honoured one Bill of Rs 1,200.

- (5) Cheque of Rs 2,000 were paid to creditors, out of these, creditors presented cheque amounting Rs 1,400 for payment on April 05, 2013.
- (6) Bank has collected dividend of Rs 800 on behalf of Naveen.
- (7) Rajesh has deposited Rs 2,500 directly in the Bank Account of Naveen.
- (8) Payment side of Cash Book is undercasted by Rs 1,500.

As per this transaction, Cash Book Balance instead of decreasing by Rs 1,910 it was increased by Rs 1,910. On the other hand, Pass Book balance was reduced by Rs 1,910. As a result, Pass Book balance has become lower than Cash Book Balance by Rs 3,820. (1,910 + 1,910)	So in this case, we will decrease cash Book balance by Rs 3,820. Therefore, it will be subtracted in the cash book balance.

Unfavourable (or Overdraft) Balance as per Cash Book and Examples

Objectives

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand how to prepare Bank Reconciliation Statements when unfavourable balance as per Cash Book is given.

Introduction

Unfavourable Balance as per Cash Book means Credit balance or Overdraft balance of Bank Column of the Cash Book. In other words, when Credit side of the Cash Book is more than its debit side, then the balancing figure shown reflects Credit balance (or Overdraft Balance or Unfavourable balance) of Cash Book. This can be diagrammatically presented in the following figure.

On any given date, we compare this credit balance of the Cash Book with the Pass Book balance. However, in case there is a mismatch between the balances, then for locating the reasons of mismatch, we prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement on that particular date. With the preparation of this statement, we can reconcile the balances of the two books.

Preparation of Bank Reconciliation statements when Unfavourable or Overdraft balance as per Cash Book is given:

Example 1 Prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement of Sai Ram Traders from the given information as on September 30, 2013:

- (1) Overdraft Balance as per Bank Column of Cash Book is Rs 25,000.
- (2) Bank has paid Insurance Premium of Rs 1,700 as per standing instructions.
- (3) Bank has credited dividend of Rs 500 not yet entered in the Cash Book.
- (4) Bank charged interest of Rs 700.
- (5) Receipt of Rs 1,600 recorded twice in the Cash Book.
- (6) Shama deposited cash of Rs 1,000 directly in the Account of Sai Ram Traders.

Favourable Balance as per Pass Book and Examples

Objectives

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand how to prepare Bank Reconciliation Statements when favourable balance as per Pass Book is given.

Introduction

Favourable Balance as per Pass Book means Credit balance of Account holder in the Pass Book. In other words, when Credit side of the Pass Book is more than its Debit side, then the balancing figure reflects the credit balance (or Favourable balance) of the Pass Book. This can be diagrammatically presented in the following figure.

On any given date, we compare this (Credit balance) Cash Book balance with the (Debit Balance) Pass Book balance. However, in case there is a mismatch between the balances, then for locating the reasons of mismatch, we prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement on that particular date. With the preparation of this statement, we can reconcile the balances of the two books.

Preparation of Bank Reconciliation statements when Favourable balance as per Pass Book is given:

Example 1 Prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement of Batra Bros. from the given information as on September 30, 2013:

- (1) Credit Balance as per Pass Book 15,000.
- (2) Cheques of Rs 5,800 were issued but only Rs 3,900 were presented till September 30.
- (3) Bank has Collected Dividend of Rs 800 on behalf of Batra Bros.

- (4) Cheques of Rs 4,700 received from customers were deposited, out of which Rs 2,200 were credited before June 30.
- (5) Cheque of Rs 870 was dishonoured but not reflected in the Bank Statement.
- (6) An outgoing cheque of Rs 590 was recorded twice in the Cash Book.
- (7) Debit side of the Cash Book was undercasted by Rs 700.
- (8) Cheque of Rs 1,500 paid into Bank but wrongly debited in the Pass Book
- (9) Bank wrongly credited Batra Bros Account by Rs 550.

Unfavourable (or Overdraft) Balance as per Pass Book and Examples

Objectives

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand how to prepare Bank Reconciliation Statements when unfavourable (or overdraft) balance as per Pass Book is given.

Introduction

Unfavourable Balance as per Pass Book means Debit balance of Account holder in the Pass Book. In other words, when Debit side of the Pass Book is more than its Credit side, then the balancing figure shown reflects Debit Balance (or Overdraft Balance or Unfavourable Balance) of Pass Book. This can be diagrammatically presented in the following figure.

On a given date, we compare the Pass Book balance with the Cash Book balance and in case there is any mismatch between the two books balances then we prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement on that date. This Bank Reconciliation Statement helps in reconciling the two books balances.

Preparation of Bank Reconciliation statements when Unfavourable balance as per Pass Book is given:

Example 1 Prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement of Dabbu Singh from the given information as on October 31, 2013:

Preparation of Adjusted Cash Book

Objectives

After going through this lesson, you shall be able to understand the following concepts.

- Preparation of BRS when transactions that cause difference between Cash Book and Pass Book are given
- Preparation of BRS when two Bank Accounts of the same person are given
- Preparation of BRS when extracts of Cash Book and Pass Book are given

Introduction

Till now, we have covered preparation of Bank Reconciliation Statement when different Book Balances are given such as Debit/Credit Balance of Cash Book and Debit/Credit

Balance of the Pass Book. Here, we will study how to prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement from Adjusted Cash Book Balance, when two Bank Accounts of same customer are given and when copy of Account of Cash Book and the Pass Book are given.

Preparation of BRS when transactions that cause difference between Cash Book and Pass Book are given

Sometimes we are required to prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement after adjusting Cash Book balances. For this, we have to first correct the given Cash Book Balances from the disagreements. These disagreements are in the form of certain bank entries not recorded in the Cash Book such as Bank Interest, Bank Charges, Dividend / Interest collected by bank, etc. Further, Cash Book balance should also be corrected from certain errors committed in the Cash Book itself such as Overcasting / Undercasting of the debit/credit side of the Cash Book. Cash Book Balance obtained after adjusting such errors is known as Adjusted Cash Book Balance. This Adjusted Cash Book Balance is taken as base for preparation of Bank Reconciliation Statement.

Let's understand the above concept with the help of an example:

Example 1 Comparing Rathoure Trader's Cash Book with his Bank Statement for the month of June 30, 2013 following points were identified:

- (1) Debit Balance as per Bank Column of Cash Book Rs 18,000.
- (2) Bank has credited dividend of Rs 500 not yet entered in the Cash Book.
- (3) Credit side of the bank column of the Cash Book was undercasted with Rs 1,200.
- (4) Bank Charged interest of Rs 700 and Bank Charges of Rs 250.
- (5) Vikram, one of the customers directly deposited cash of Rs 1,050 in the Bank Account.
- (6) Cheque of Rs 2,560 issued to creditors but only cheques of Rs 1,090 were cleared till date.
- (7) Cheques amounting Rs 1,820 deposited in the bank and duly credited but while recording it is debited in the Cash Book with Rs 1,280.
- (8) Bank wrongly debited Rathoure Traders Account with Rs 660.

Pass necessary entries in the Cash Book and thereafter, prepare Bank Reconciliation Statement as on June 30, 2013.

Preparation of BRS when two Bank Accounts of the same person are given:

Sometimes there are two Bank Accounts maintained by a person in the same bank. In such cases, each of the Account is denoted by a separate account number. When there are two accounts of the same person in the same bank it may cause errors like transaction of one account is posted in the other account. Therefore, to rectify these errors firstly we need to prepare corrected Cash Book balance of that particular account. Corrected Cash Book Balance will be prepared in the same manner as discussed above. After obtaining corrected Cash Book balance of a Particular Account, we prepare its Bank Reconciliation Statement.

Example 2 Sir Desai's Cash Book Balance of Account No 1 is not tallying with its Pass Book Balance on June 30, 2013. Following points were noticed in this regard:

- (1) Debit Balance of the Cash Book of Account No 1 Rs 15,450.
- (2) Cheque of Rs 2,820 was issued on Account No 1 but out of these cheque amounting Rs 1,450 were presented on May 10, 2013.

- (3) Debit side of Cash Book of Account No 1 was overcasted by Rs 1,260.
- (4) Dividend of Rs 550 was paid directly into Account No 2.
- (5) Bank Charges of Rs 250 and Rs 325 were charged to Account No 1 and Account No 2 respectively. There is no recording in the Cash Book for this.
- (6) Cheque of Rs 1,640 were deposited in Account No 2 and correctly recorded in the Cash Book, but it was wrongly credited by Bank in Account No 1.
- (7) Customer's cheque of Rs 970 deposited in Account No 1 was dishonoured but no entry for this is made in the Cash Book.

Note: Adjustment no (4) regarding dividend received of Rs 550 and adjustment no (5) related to Bank Charges paid of Rs 325 for account no. 2 is not considered. This is because they are related to Account no 2 which is not required in the question.

Preparation of BRS when extracts of Cash Book Account and Pass Book Account is given:

Whenever in the question extracts of Cash Book and Pass Book are given, in such cases, we have to compare these two books. While comparing, we should match items appearing on the Debit Side of the Cash Book with those appearing on the Credit side of Pass Book. On the other hand, items appearing on the Credit Side of the Cash Book should be tallied with those appearing on the Debit Side of the Pass Book. If there is any difference of transactions is found in either of two books then such transaction would be shown in the Bank Reconciliation Statement.
