Social, technological, and legal environment affects the business. Hence the business needs to pay proper attention towards various dimensions of the business environment to run the business successfully.

7.1 INTRODUCTION

Like human being, business also does not function in an isolated vacuum. It functions within a whole process of relevant environment and negotiates its' way through it. The extent to which the business thrives depends on the manner in which it interacts with its environment. Successful business does not only recognize different elements of the environment but also influence them. The business must continuously monitor and adapt to the environment in order to survive and prosper. Disturbances in the environment may either spell extreme threats or open up new opportunities for the firm. A successful business has to identify, appraise and respond to the various opportunities and threats in its environment.

The success of every business depends on adapting itself to the environment within which it functions.

7.1.1 Meaning

Business environment comprises of such factors which can affect business, such as the strength, weaknesses, internal power, relationship and orientations of the organization, government policies and regulations, nature of the economy and economic conditions, socio cultural factors, demographic trends, natural factors, and global trends.

The term business environment generally refers to the external environment which includes factors outside the business leading to opportunities or threats to the business.

7.1.2 Definitions

Bayard O. Wheeler: “The total of all things external to firm and industries which affect their organization and operations is called as Business Environment.”

William F. Glueck: “Business Environment is the process by which strategists monitor the economic, governmental, market, supplier, technological, geographic and social settings to determine opportunities and threats to the firms”.

According to Barry M. Richman and Melvyan Copen, ‘Environment factors of constraints are largely if not totally external and beyond the control of individual enterprises and their arrangement.’

The business environment constitute threats to the firm and offers opportunities for potential market including several factors. From the above definitions one can conclude that business environment consists of internal as well as external factors which constitute threats to a firm or they provide opportunities to exploit.

7.2 IMPORTANCE OF BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

There is an intimate interaction between business and environment which helps in strengthening the business firm and using its resources more effectively. To be more specific, proper understanding of various dimensions of business environment helps the business in following way:

1. Determining opportunities and threats: The interaction between business and its environment identifies opportunities and threats to business. It helps the business enterprises for overcoming challenges successfully.
2. Identifying firm’s strength and weakness: Business environment helps to identify the individual strength and weakness in view of the technological and global development.

3. Continuous learning: Environmental analysis makes the task of managers easier in dealing with business challenges. The managers are motivated to continuously update their knowledge, understanding the skill to meet the predicted changes in realm of business.
4. Image Building: Environmental understanding helps the business organization in improving their images by showing their sensitivity to the environment within which they are working. It also includes meeting the expectations of consumers, government, employees etc.
5. Meeting Competition: It helps the firm to analyze the strategies of the competitors and formulate their own strategies accordingly.
6. Giving Direction for growth: The interaction with environment leads to opening up new frontiers of growth to the business firms. It enables the business to identify the areas of growth and expansion of their activities.

7.3 DIMENSIONS OF BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

On the basis of the extent of intimacy with the firm, the environmental factors may be classified into two types of environment; the internal environment and external environment.

The internal factors such as personnel, physical facilities, organization and functional etc. are generally regarded as controllable factors. On the other hand external factors of environment are beyond the control of a business.

BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT (DIMENSIONS AND THEIR FEATURES)

The term business environment generally refers to the external environment and includes factors outside the firm i.e. economic environment, political environment, legal environment, socio-cultural environment, technological environment, natural environment and global environment.

INTERNAL (CONTROLLABLE) FACTORS :

The policies decided by shareholders, managers, labour unions and the employees are known as Internal Environmental factors which can be controlled. On this context the factors of internal environment are discussed as follows :

1. Value System: The value system of the founder and those at the top management has important bearing on the choice of business. Value systems is important to success of business.

2. Vision, Mission and Objectives: The business domain of the company, priorities direction of development, business philosophy and business policy etc. are guided by the vision, mission and objectives of business.
3. Management Structure and Nature: The composition of Board of Directors, extent of professionalism of management etc. are important factors influencing business decisions.
4. Internal Power Relationship: The support of the top management to different levels of employees, shareholders and BOD have important influence on the decision and their implementation. The relation between the member of BOD and the chief executive is also critical factors.
5. Human Resources: The characteristics of human resources like skill, quality, moral, commitment and attitude etc. Could contribute to the strength and weakness of an organization.

Other Factors:

- i. Physical Assets and Facilities: Production capacity, technology and efficient distribution logistics etc are the factors which influence on the competitiveness.
- ii. Marketing Resources: Quality of marketing, brand equity and distribution network etc. have direct effect on business.
- iii. Financial Factors: Financial Policies, financial position and structure etc. also affect business performances, strategies and decisions.

EXTERNAL (UNCONTROLLABLE) FACTORS

7.3.1 NATURAL ENVIRONMENT

The factors which influence the business are geographical and ecological factors such as natural resource endowments, weather and climatic conditions, topographical factors and location aspects in the global context. The natural environment comprises the factors like climate, minerals, soil, landforms, rivers and oceans and natural resources etc. All elements of natural environment have considerable influence on the functions of a business.

Manufacturing is one of the aspect of business which depends on physical environment for inputs like raw material, skilled labour, water and fuel etc. Trade and commerce between two nations is dependent on the geographic factors. Due to the natural factors, certain areas are more suitable for production of certain goods while other areas are in need of such goods. Some business like mining of coal and ores, drilling of oil and most important agricultural production depends on nature.

Today environmental pollution and the disturbance of ecological balance causes great concern, government policies aim at the preservation of environmental purity, ecological balance and conservation of non-replenishable resources etc. These have resulted in additional responsibilities and problems for business.

Activity

- Natural Environment: Find out raw material being available in abundance in your area. How many industries or business units set up is based on it ?

7.3.2 SOCIAL ENVIRONMENT

The social attitude is important for business practices to cope with it. The modern business is a social system in itself, and it is also a part of the larger social system represented by society in general. Clearly, there should be some reciprocal relationship between business and society. To put it shortly, the business should adapt itself to the social environment accordingly.

Another feature which affects the business is the class structure of the society which tells about the social role and organizations and the development of social institutions. Class structure depends upon the various factors like occupation of the people, their education, income level, social status, attitude towards living, work and social relationship and above all, their attitude towards business. Every society develops its own culture which means how the members of that society behave and interact with each other in the society. In addition to this other remarkable factors, includes aspects like customs, traditions, values, ethics, beliefs, social trends, poverty, literacy, life expectancy rate and other accepted behavior patterns which are as follows:

1. Social aspect : Important aspect of social environment are literacy level, educational system, cultural heritage, standard of living and mobility of labour etc.
2. Social trends : In India social trends are changing very fast. Urban population is becoming more health and fitness conscious. People in large numbers are going for fast food items and gyms. In view of these trends fast food outlets and gyms are coming up in urban and semi urban area.

3. Social values : Social Values based on customs, ethics, beliefs help business to meet the demand as per customer need. For example, Home Budget System will never be accepted in rural area due to the customs.
4. Traditions : Celebration of Diwali, Eid, Christmas and other festivals also affect the business.

Activity

- Social Environment Discuss with your parent and other relatives and find out the changes in their consumption habits over the last five years. Analyse the impact of these changes on business.

7.3.3 POLITICAL ENVIRONMENT

All business firms are affected by the government and its policies. Political forces decide the nature of business, programmes and projects to be undertaken for development of the country. Political environment includes stability and peace in the country, specific attitudes of elected representative. Political stability gives the signal of strength, confidence to various interest groups and investors in the long term projects. Similarly, ideology of the political parties influences the business organization and attitudes of government officials towards business has an impact on business.

India is the democratic country, Indian political system comprises three vital institutions like Legislature, Government and Judiciary.

1. Legislature: Legislature is very powerful because powers such as policy making, law making, budget approving, executing control etc. are in the hands of legislature.
2. Government: For business consideration, we should know what are government's responsibilities towards business. Government policies does affect business organization. Therefore government should frame policies for business organization.
3. Judiciary: Judiciary is the third important institution in political system. It determines the method of working of government and defines the relationship between government and citizens .

7.3.4 ECONOMIC ENVIRONMENT

The survival and success of business firm fully depends on economic environment. The Economic environment comprises of economic condition, economic policies and economic system, basic economic philosophy, infrastructure, national income, money supply, saving stages in economic development and trade cycles are also the major factors which make up the total economic environment. Some important factors are as follows :

Economic Condition: The economic condition of the nation refers to the present state of economy in the country or region. Economic condition of the nation is based on the gross domestic product, per capita income, availability of capital, growth of foreign trade and strength of capital market.

Economic policies: All business activities are directly influenced by the economic policies which are framed by the government from time to time. Government keeps on changing these policies keeping the development in view. Industrial policy, monetary policy, foreign investment policy, export-import policy, agricultural policy, education policy and public expenditure policy are important economic policies. Every business must function strictly within the policy framework and respond to the change therein.

Economic system: The scope of private business and the extent of government regulation of economic activities depend on the nature of economic system i.e. capitalist, socialist and mixed.

- A) Capitalist Economy -This economy is also known as free market economy. This system stresses on individualism which believes in private ownership. e.g. U. S. A.
- B) Socialist Economy - In this economic system factors of productions are organized, managed and owned by government. Socialist economy does involve an equal division of existing wealth among the people.
- C) Mixed Economy - Factors of production are jointly owned by government and private individuals. e.g. India

7.3.5 TECHNOLOGICAL ENVIRONMENT

Technological environment consists of the methods and techniques adopted for production. The varying technological environment affect the designing of products. Technology is the most dramatic force shaping the destiny of people and business. Technological changes are fast and business should be ever alert to adopt technological changes from time to time.

It may be noted that scientific research for innovation in product and services is a regular activity in business firm. Because now a days no firm can afford to persist with the outdated technologies.

E.g. Digital India, initiative by Government of India.

Activity

- Technological Environment : Visit to the post offices, banks and other offices in your area and make note of changes that have taken place due to the change in information technology.

7.3.6 LEGAL ENVIRONMENT

Business in a country can be started, regulated, controlled and expanded only within the legal framework of a country. In this connection all countries of the world have a separate set of laws for the control and direction of business. All business managers should have the knowledge of law for taking decision.

Some important laws influencing the business are:

- i. Indian Contract Act, 1872 (2017)
- ii. Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 (2010)
- iii. Industrial Dispute Act, 1947 (2016)
- iv. Standards of Weight and Measures Act, 1969 (2016)
