Answer: The procedure to make the cash flow is as follows:

- Firstly, determine the flows of the cash from the operating activities of the business.
- Next, the business shall determine the flows of the cash from its investing activities.
- Then it must determine the flows of the cash from its financing activities.
- The next step involves the total of the sum of all the three activities.
- The final step involved the deduction of the opening balance of the cash and the cash equivalents from the resulting sum of all the three activities which will result the figure which is the closing the balance of the cash and the equivalents of the cash.

Question 10

Describe "Indirect" method of ascertaining Cash Flow from Operating Activities.

Answer: The indirect method of ascertaining the cash flow from the operating activities involve all the non-operating and the non-cash items. Under this method, cash flow is ascertained from the flow of the cash of the operating activities begin with the net profit or the net loss. The income statement in this method is on the accrual basis which hence includes both non-operating items such as interest paid, loss or the profit made on the sale of any fixed assets ; and the non-cash items such as write off of the goodwill, depreciation. Following is the sample of the nest cash flows from the operating activities:

Net profit before tax
(add) deductions made in P&L made for non-cash items like depreciation, goodwill to be written off
(add) deductions made in P&L made for non-operating item like interest
(less) additions made in P&L for non-operating items like dividend received and profit on sale of fixed assets
Operating profit before changes in working capital
(add) increase in current liabilities
(add) decrease in current assets
(less) increase in current assets
(less) decrease in current liabilities
Cash flows from operating activities before tax and extraordinary items
(less) income tax
(add/less) effects of extraordinary items
Net cash from operating activities

Question 11

Explain the major Cash Inflow and outflows from investing activities.

Answer: Cash flows is referred to as the movement of the non-cash items of the business in and outside the business.

Thus the cash inflow is referred to as the situation in which the cash comes from the non-cash item and on the other hand when the cash is used by the business to get the non-cash item than it is referred as cash outflow. The transactions of the business which are related to the long term investments in the business are called as the investing activities.

The example of the cash flow from the investing activities is as follows:

Sale of machinery – Cash inflows

Purchase of machinery – Cash outflows

Question 12

Explain the major Cash Inflows and outflows from financing activities.

Answer: Cash flows is referred to as the movement of the non-cash items of the business in and outside the business. Thus the cash inflow is referred to as the situation in which the cash comes from the non-cash item and on the other hand when the cash is used by the business to get the non-cash item than it is referred as cash outflow. For instance, the sale of the computer of the business generates cash for the business and hence is cash inflow and on the other hand the cash spent on the purchase of the new computer is the cash outflow. The financing activity is referred to all those transactions which are related to the acquiring of the long term capital or the funds for the business. Thus, the cash flow from the financing activities can be in the following forms:

Proceed from long term borrowings – Cash inflows
Repayment of long term borrowings – Cash outflows
