6. Adhere to the prescribed word limit while answering the questions.

SECTION A – READING SKILLS

1. Read the passage given below:

[12]

1. As a form of expression, graffiti is famously characterized by outlaw values; the creation and display of graffiti countered societal rules and was considered by some as vandalism. Not only was it symbolic of rebel values but was also linked to destruction of property. These links between graffiti culture and rebellion were age-old and some say, were popularized by hip-hop culture.
2. Imagine waking up one morning, to see your walls smeared with black paint names, symbols, messages. The most interesting bit is that these wall artists were never caught red-handed. It was all done stealthily. It was almost as though people were marking their territory using painted symbols and slogans. The change was creeping in. Mobile numbers and captivating phrases gradually became marketing tools for free advertising. Catchy phrases tickled the curiosity and calls were made to those numbers.
3. Over a period of time, there was a shift in perception. Blank walls beckoned invitingly and artists saw whitewashed walls as an opportunity to display their work in free and open settings. The city became one large canvas; the illegal 'gang activity' became an art form on display in walking galleries. Graffiti was gradually being replaced and the stigma of illegality was being dropped. There was a move to embrace rather than condemn.
4. The colours, shapes, and subjects became cultural themes. What was once rebellious expression is artistic talent at its vibrant best, rich in images of plants, animals and unspoiled landscapes. The painted walls encouraged by residents and governments have created their own ecosystem a reconciliation of nature with man-made forces.
5. The monotony and uniformity of urban life is today infused with human vitality and beauty. Cities speak proudly about the painted walls and clamour to be the first to preserve culture and history through these. Graphic displays of social awareness issues effectively and economically reach out to the common man.

Silent art speaks volumes. Be it hygiene, conservation, education, or rights and duties the message is conveyed in an animated, colourful manner without being an imposition.

Answer the following questions, based on the above passage :

- i. Complete the sentence by choosing an appropriate option. (1)

2. Read the following passage carefully :

[10]

1. Fast-Moving Consumer Goods (FMCG) are products that sell quickly at relatively low cost. FMCG is the fourth-largest sector in the Indian economy. There are three main segments in the sector - food and beverages, which accounts for 19% of the sector; healthcare, which accounts for 31% of the share; and household and personal care, which accounts for the remaining 50% share. The urban segment contributes to about 55% of the revenue share, while the rural segment accounts for 45%. The rise in rural consumption will drive the FMCG market. The Indian processed food market is projected to expand to US$470 billion by 2025, up from US$263 billion in 2019-20.
2. The Indian FMCG industry grew by 16% in 2021, a 9-year high, despite nationwide lockdowns, supported by consumption-led growth and value expansion from higher product prices, particularly for staples. Real household spending is projected to increase 9.1% after 2021, after a decrease of 9.3% in 2020 due to the economic impact of the pandemic. Price increases across product categories will offset the impact of rising raw material prices, along with volume growth and a resurgence of demand for discretionary items.

3. The FMCG sector has received good investments and support from the Government in the recent past. The sector witnessed healthy FDI inflows from April 2000 to March 2022. Furthermore, as per the Union Budget 2022 23, a substantial amount has been allocated to the Department of Consumer Affairs, and an increased amount has been allocated to the Department of Food and Public Distribution. In 2021 22, the Government approved the Production-Linked Incentive Scheme for the Food Processing Industry (PLISFPI) with an outlay of a larger amount to help Indian brands of food products in the international markets.
4. The G Production-Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme gives companies a major opportunity to boost exports. The future outlook of the FMCG rural sector looks on track now. Rural consumption has increased, led by a combination of increasing income and higher aspiration levels. There is an increased demand for branded products in rural India. The growth of organised sector in FMCG is expected to rise with an increased level of brand consciousness, augmented by the growth in modern retail.

Table I. FMCG Products

1. Processed foods: Cheese products, cereals
2. Prepared meals: Ready-to-eat meals
3. Beverages: Bottled water, aerated drinks, and juices
4. Baked goods: Biscuits, bread
5. Fresh foods, frozen foods, and dry goods: Fruits, vegetables, milk, butter, frozen food, and nuts
6. Medicines: Aspirin, pain relievers, and over-the-counter medication that can be purchased without a prescription
7. Cleaning products: Baking soda, washing powder
8. Cosmetics and toiletries: Beauty products, soaps, toothpaste
9. Office supplies: Pens, pencils

Answer the following questions, based on the above passage :

- i. Does the following statement agree with the information given in para 1? (1)
 The food and beverages segment dominates the Global FMCG market and is expected to retain its dominance.
 Select from the following:
 - I. True - If the statement agrees with the information
 - II. False - If the statement contradicts the information
 - III. Not Given - If there is no information on this
- ii. Select the option that displays the most likely reason for the FMCG rural sector being on track. (1)
 - a. The FMCG sector has been unable to get investments from the Government.
 - b. PLI schemes don't reach the rural sector.

- c. The Gross Merchandise Value (GMV) of the online grocery segment in India is expected to double in the next five years.
- d. There is a desire to buy branded products in the villages too.
- iii. Complete the sentence based on the following statement: (1)
The Indian FMCG industry grew by 16% in 2021, a 9-year high, despite nationwide lockdowns because _____.
- iv. From the given pie chart, which segment of FMCG accounts for the maximum percentage of the sector? Why? (2)
- v. Complete the given sentence by selecting the most appropriate option: (1)
The combination of increasing income and higher aspiration levels in the rural areas has led to _____.
a. the Government taking a direct interest
b. the demand for branded products
c. price increases across product categories
d. the fall of supply in urban areas
- vi. How is the Government trying to help Indian brands of food products in the international markets? (2)
- vii. Complete the given sentence by selecting the most appropriate option: (1)
The concluding paragraph of the passage makes a clear case _____.
a. that the rural people also want branded products
b. that the FMCG industry will not focus on brand consciousness
c. for the role of data analytics in the FMCG industry
d. for the Government's role by providing incentives
- viii. What will be the impact of the increased level of brand consciousness? (1)

SECTION C - LITERATURE

7. Read the following text carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Aunt Jennifer's fingers fluttering through her wool

Find even the ivory needle hard to pull.

The massive weight of Uncle's wedding band sits heavily upon Aunt Jennifer's hand when Aunt is dead, her terrified hands will lie still ringed with ordeals she was mastered by,

The Tigers in the panel that she made will go on prancing, proud and unafraid.

(Aunt Jennifer's Tigers)

2nd April 2019.
- Dear Hrishit,
- I am planning to spend the summer vacation at my farm-house post examination. I invite you to spend at least a fortnight with me at my farm-house. It is a pollution-free place with lots of trees and greenery all around. The sylvan surroundings will have a refreshing effect on your heart and mind. We shall also visit Pinjore gardens and Kalka hills. Looking forward to your arrival.
- Your Loving Friend,
Roshan Khera.

- Subject: Problem of Increasing Stress Faced by Students
- Sir,
- Through the columns of your esteemed newspaper, I would like to express my views on the problem of increasing stress among the students due to the highly competitive environment.
- Today's world is full of competition. Every now and then a child is assessed on different parameters. Parents expect a lot from their children. They want their children to excel in all fields such as studies, sports, and co-curricular activities. Everyone wants their children to be a doctor or an engineer. The result is that children are unduly stressed and burdened. All day long they are indulged in completing their homework and studies and no time is left for games and sports.
- It is high time we should ponder upon this problem. Students should be involved in games, sports, and yoga to combat stress. Parents should not pressurize their children for performing excellently in their studies. Meditation can be practised for keeping stress at bay.
- Yours sincerely
Rekha/Rakesh

6. Devastating Floods Ravage Assam: Relief Measures Pushed in

By Vinay/Vijaya, The Times of India

Assam reels under the aftermath of devastating floods, leaving a trail of destruction across several districts. The relentless downpour has submerged villages, ravaged infrastructure, and displaced countless families. The state mourns the loss of life and property, with the numbers still rising. Many are missing, and search and rescue operations are underway by the National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) and local authorities. Evacuation efforts are in full swing, with thousands being shifted to temporary relief shelters. The Assam government has announced immediate measures to address the crisis. Relief materials, including food, water, and medicines, are being distributed to the affected areas. Financial assistance has been promised to the affected families. As the state navigates through this crisis, solidarity and support from neighbouring regions and the nation at large will be crucial in aiding its recovery.

Be - Do - Live Well: A Wellness Workshop

By Rita/Rahul, Student Editor

September 11, 2024

The Student Counselling Department recently organized a transformative wellness workshop titled "Be - Do - Live Well" at the Community Centre from the 6th to the 8th of February. This three-day event, running from 10 AM to 6:30 PM each day, aimed to address common concerns, reduce stress, and inspire motivation among students.

The workshop aimed to address common concerns related to mental and emotional well-being. It featured a series of interactive sessions focused on reducing stress, developing motivation strategies, and embracing the joy of living. The sessions were led by experienced counsellors and wellness experts who provided valuable insights and practical tips.

One of the highlights of the workshop was the "Theatre in Action" segment, where participants engaged in role-playing activities to explore and express their emotions. This innovative approach helped attendees to better understand their feelings and develop healthier coping mechanisms.

Throughout the three days, participants had the opportunity to share their experiences and concerns in a supportive environment. The workshop emphasized the importance of self-care and provided tools to enhance overall well-being.

Feedback from attendees was overwhelmingly positive, with many expressing gratitude for the practical advice and supportive atmosphere. The event not only helped reduce stress but also inspired participants to adopt a more positive and proactive approach to life.

In conclusion, the "Be - Do - Live WELL" workshop was a resounding success, fostering a sense of community and well-being among all who attended. The student counselling department deserves commendation for organizing such a meaningful and impactful event.

10. Answer any five of the following questions in 40-50 words each:

- (i) By his frightened look, Edla guessed that the peddler had either stolen something or has escaped prison. She was sympathetic towards him and hinted to him that he would be allowed to leave whenever he wanted. She requested him to stay with them over Christmas Eve. Her friendly disposition won his trust and so on being reassured, he accepted the invitation.
- (ii) When the poet wrote 'young trees sprinting' she was comparing old age with youth. Young sprinting trees reminded her of the energy, vivacity, vibrancy and spirit of endurance as against the lifeless, wearied and drained out energy of her old mother. Sprinting trees symbolize the life in contrast to her mother's approaching death.
- (iii) In his poem 'A Roadside Stand', Robert Frost has quite vividly and sensitively portrayed the plight of the poor rural folk. The poor villagers set up a roadside stand on one side of the road in the hope to sell things and earn some money. But hardly any city cars stop there. The villagers feel disheartened and depressed. The 'greedy good-doers' and 'the beneficent beasts' from cities, the social agencies swarm around them in the name of helping them. Even the 'party in power' i.e., the government has an indifferent attitude to them and they have never fulfilled the promises made to them.
- (iv) Sophie's ambition in life was to have the most amazing boutique in the city. In order to achieve that, she planned to earn a lot of money by becoming either a manager or an actress or a fashion designer.
- (v) Subbu's enemy was the 'boy' at the make-up department. All his anger and frustration were directed against him. The boy was convinced that Subbu was the cause of his woes and miseries. This 'boy' was jealous of Subbu's rising stars, his success, and his intimacy with the boss.
- (vi) Lewis Carroll was the author of the famous book 'Alice in Wonderland.' He had never consented to be interviewed as he had a horror of the interviewer. The horror was that he would be lionized and that made him repel interviews. He was equally against the petitioners who wanted to meet him or take his autograph.

11. Answer any two of the following questions in 40-50 words each:

- (i) The brightness that prevailed in Antarctica was surreal (strange) as the austral summer light remained for 24 hours in the continent. The silence there was ubiquitous (widespread) interrupted only by the occasional avalanche or calving ice sheet.
- (ii) Dr. Sadao could be arrested if someone complained about the family harbouring an enemy in their home. The servants were even worried too when they realized that their master was helping an enemy which would lead them all to prison.
- (iii) Gondwana, an extensive supercontinent situated in the southern hemisphere, comprised diverse flora and fauna without any human inhabitants. Approximately 650 million years ago, India and Antarctica constituted distinct sections of a unified landmass. Over time, these regions gradually drifted apart, leading to the emergence of separate continents and oceans.

12. Good morning, everyone.

As I analyzed the assigned texts, namely "Lost Spring," "The Last Lesson," and "Going Places," I noticed that the portrayals of young children highlight various aspects of their experiences in society. These portrayals shed light on the following themes:

Making the optimum use of constrained opportunities:

In "Lost Spring," Saheb, a rag-picker, exemplifies the ability to make the most of limited opportunities. Despite his challenging circumstances, he shows resilience and resourcefulness by finding ways to earn a living and support his family. This portrayal highlights the importance of seizing even the smallest opportunities and making the best of them.

The cause of our sadness due to imaginary expectations:

In "The Last Lesson," Franz, a truant schoolboy, experiences sadness when he realizes that he took his education for granted. He had imagined that he would always have the opportunity to learn, but the sudden imposition of a new language law shatters his expectations. This portrayal reminds us of the sadness that can arise when our imaginary expectations clash with reality.

Not giving up and winning over fear after an awful experience:

In "Going Places," Sophie, a romantic dreamer, faces disappointment when she realizes that her aspirations of traveling the world are limited by her circumstances. However, she does not give up on her dreams and finds solace in her imagination and the power of books. This portrayal emphasizes the importance of resilience and determination in overcoming setbacks and pursuing our goals.

William Douglas' Deep Water shows how he was successful in conquering fear. Even after having a dread of water that haunted him since childhood, he decides to face his. His further attempts to get over the fear, demonstrate his guts and willpower. This gives a message that one must get above their fear.

These portrayals also highlight the importance of understanding the value of our privileges. In "Lost Spring," the contrast between the lives of the child laborers and our own privileges, such as education and a loving family, reminds us to appreciate what we have without taking it for granted. It is essential to recognize and acknowledge the advantages we possess and use them to make a positive impact on society.

To conclude, the portrayals of young children in "Lost Spring," "The Last Lesson," and "Going Places" offer diverse experiences and insights. They highlight the significance of making the most of constrained opportunities, the impact of imaginary expectations on our emotions, the importance of not giving up and overcoming fear, and the value of understanding and appreciating our privileges. These themes serve as valuable lessons for us all, encouraging us to navigate life's challenges with resilience, gratitude, and determination.

Thank you.

Rashmi: How can one compare a mother's face to a corpse? And do you really think, Rehaan, that in today's world of Instagram story updates, one can ever be in a state of total inactivity as urged by Neruda in his poem Keeping Quiet?

Rehaan: I think Kamala Das's comparison of her mother's face to a corpse is a metaphor for the aging process. It's a reminder that life is fleeting and that we should cherish the moments we have with our loved ones. As for Neruda's poem, I think he's urging us to take a moment of silence and introspection to connect with ourselves and the world around us. In today's world, where we are constantly bombarded with information and distractions, it's more important than ever to take a step back and reflect.

Rashmi: But how can we be in a state of total inactivity when our existence is judged by how "active" we are on social networking sites? We are expected to constantly update our profiles, share our thoughts and opinions, and engage with others. It's like we're always "on," and there's no time for quiet contemplation.

Rehaan: I understand what you're saying, Rashmi, but I think there's a difference between being "active" on social media and being truly engaged with the world around us. We can use social media as a tool to connect with others and share our ideas, but we should also take the time to disconnect and reflect. In Neruda's poem, he talks about the importance of "not doing" and just being present in the moment. It's a reminder that sometimes, the most meaningful experiences come from just being still and observing.

Rashmi: I see your point, Rehaan. Maybe we need to find a balance between being "active" on social media and taking the time to disconnect and reflect. And Kamala Das's poem is a reminder that we should cherish the moments we have with our loved ones, even if they are fleeting.

Rehaan: Exactly. Life is short, and we should make the most of it. We can use social media to connect with others, but we should also take the time to be present in the moment and appreciate the world around us.

Rashmi: Thank you for sharing your perspective, Rehaan. It's given me a lot to think about.

Rehaan: Anytime, Rashmi. It's always good to have a meaningful conversation.

13. The Importance of Humor in Life

A sense of humor helps us deal with problems in life and improves one's mental and physical health. The story "The Tiger King" by Kalki is a perfect example of how humor can add a light-hearted touch to serious themes, making them more engaging and memorable. The humorous dialogue, "Your Majesty, I have two wives already. If I marry you..." not only adds comic relief but also captures the readers' attention, making the story more enjoyable.

Mental and Physical Health Benefits

- Laughter triggers the release of endorphins, the body's natural feel-good chemicals. Endorphins promote an overall sense of well-being and can temporarily relieve pain.
- Laughter improves the function of blood vessels and increases blood flow, which can help protect against heart attacks and other cardiovascular problems.
- A good laugh can help reduce anxiety and depression, making you feel happier and more relaxed.

Social Benefits

- Sharing a laugh with others can strengthen relationships by fostering emotional connections and creating a sense of camaraderie.

- Humor can be a powerful tool in communication, helping to break the ice, ease tension, and convey messages more effectively.

Coping with Challenges

Humor provides a way to cope with difficult situations. It allows us to view challenges from a different perspective, making them seem less daunting. In "The Tiger King," the humorous elements help to lighten the narrative, making the serious undertones more palatable and engaging.

Encouraging Creativity and Problem-Solving

Humor encourages creative thinking and problem-solving by allowing us to see things from different angles. It helps us to think outside the box and come up with innovative solutions to problems.

In conclusion, by incorporating humor into our daily lives, we can navigate challenges more effectively and enjoy a happier, healthier existence.

I still cherish the stroll from school to home that I enjoyed during my childhood. My home was hardly a ten-minute walk from my school. But it used to take almost half an hour for me to reach my home because I was riveted by all the fun and games in the streets. I used to see new or sometimes strange things happening there, and then there were the shops and the bazaar that I loved to see. Sometimes there would be a performing monkey or a snake charmer. Other times there would be the cyclist who had not got off his bike for three days. There were the spinning wheels. The Maariyaata temple was a great attraction. There used to be all sorts of shops and stalls. There used to be a hunter gypsy with a lemur in a cage, and people selling needles, clay pots, and instruments for cleaning ears. There used to be some political party arranging mikes. At times there I got to see a puppet or a magic show. There used to be coffee clubs in the bazaar. Some people could be seen sitting in front of the shops, chopping onions. Then, according to the season, there used to be people selling fruits, sweets, tasty fried snacks, payasam, halwa, boiled tamarind seeds, and iced lollies.
