1. As a young adult, life can be stressful and overwhelming at times. Juggling among school, work, social life, and other responsibilities, it can be easy to feel alone and disconnected from the world around us. Dogs are the ultimate companions for anyone looking to alleviate stress and loneliness. We'll explore many reasons why dogs make the best companions for young adults.
2. Unconditional love: Dogs are known for their loyalty and love for their owners, no matter what. They don't judge us, criticize us, or hold grudges against us. No matter how flawed or imperfect we may be, our dogs will always love us unconditionally. This kind of unwavering support and affection can be incredibly comforting for young adults struggling to find their place in the world.
3. Social connection: Dogs are great ice-breakers and conversation starters. Whether you're walking them in the park, taking them to the dog beach, or simply hanging out at home, dogs have a way of bringing people together. For young adults who may feel isolated or disconnected from their peers, having a dog by their side can be a great way to connect with others and form new friendships.

4. Increase physical activity: Dogs require regular exercise in order to stay healthy and happy. This means that young adults who own dogs are more likely to engage in physical activity themselves. Whether its going for a run, playing frisbee, or simply taking a leisurely stroll, getting out with your dog can be a great way to boost your mood and energy levels.
5. Emotional support : Dogs are also great emotional support animals for those struggling with mental health issues such as anxiety and depression. Their presence alone can provide a sense of calm and comfort, and their ability to sense their owner's emotions can be incredibly comforting. For young adults dealing with mental health challenges, having a dog as a companion can be a life-changing experience.
6. Improve responsibility and self-care : Owning a dog also comes with a great deal of responsibility and self-care. Dogs require regular feeding, grooming, exercise, and attention, which can be a great way for young adults to develop a sense of responsibility and self-discipline. Additionally, having a dog as a companion can encourage young adults to take better care of themselves, such as making sure they get enough sleep, eat healthy, and engage in regular exercise.
7. For all these reasons and more, dogs make fantastic companions for young adults. Whether you're looking for emotional support, social connection, increased physical activity , or simply someone to love and be loved by, a dog can provide all these things and more. So the next time you're feeling stressed or overwhelmed, consider finding a furry friend to take on the world with you.

Read the following report and answer the questions by choosing the correct/most appropriate option:

1. How bird hits happen, why they are a concern?

New Delhi June 20

At least two bird strike incidents happened on Sunday. Both aircrafts returned to their airports of origin and were grounded for maintenance. An ABC aircraft, which took off from Guwahati towards Delhi, suffered damage to its left engine following a bird hit at 1600 feet. The pilots returned to Guwahati. The other strike happened on another flight from Patna to Delhi. The pilots of the aircraft suspected a bird strike during the take-off roll but continued to climb.

Following the take off rotation, they were informed by the cabin crew of sparks emanating from the left engine. Subsequently, the pilots were also informed by air traffic control of smoke coming out of one of the engines. The pilots declared an emergency and returned to Patna.

2. Why are bird strikes a concern?

Bird strikes are among the most common threats to aircraft safety, and they typically occur during take-off or landing. Dozens of bird-strikes happen each day but some can be more dangerous than others. Typically, when birds collide with an aircraft's airframe, it is unlikely to cause significant problems for the pilots flying. But there are instances when the aircraft engine ingests the birds. This can lead to a loss of thrust for the engine and cause maneuverability problems for the crew. In these cases, where a jet engine ingests a bird, procedures would generally call for pilots to land the plane at the closest airport. While most airframe bird strikes are not considered critical to air safety, if a collision cracks a window or a wind screen, pilots will look to land as early as possible.

3. How critical are bird strikes to air safety?

Smaller planes would generally be more susceptible to the dangers of bird strikes than larger ones.

However, given that bird strikes mostly happen during take-off and landing, these incidents could distract the pilots during what are highly critical phases of flights that demand the complete attention of the crew.

4. What causes bird-strikes?

The presence of birds around an aircraft increases the chances of a bird strike. In the monsoon, as water puddles emerge on open grounds attracting insects to breed, the presence of birds increases. In some cases, bird hits also happen at higher altitudes when a plane is cruising. These are more dangerous than the low-altitude hits, given that they can cause rapid depressurization of cabins. Other reasons for bird activity around the air field could be presence of landfills or waste disposal sites that can attract a large number of birds.

Answer the following questions, based on the above passage :

- i. Does the following statement agree with the information given in paragraph 1.

When an airplane is hit by a bird or is suspected to have been hit, the passengers must be asked to get down at once.

Select from the following :

True : If the statement agrees with the information.

False : If the statement contradicts the information.

Not Given : If there is no information on this.

- ii. Select the option that displays the most likely reason for Bird hits. (1)

- a. when the aircraft is overloaded
- b. at the time of landing or taking off
- c. when the crew become negligent
- d. when the passengers become panicky

Dear Sir,

Subject: Relevance of book fairs

Through your esteemed columns, I would like to praise people's love for books. National Book Trust organized a six-day book fair at Anna Grounds, Chennai recently. I was delighted to see many books being displayed on a variety of subjects.

Different publishers including some foreign publishers had set up their stalls. A variety of books on diverse subjects were available on heavy discounts. A large crowd visited the book fair and publishers were encouraging people to buy their books. It was really a pleasure to see people's enthusiasm to buy books.

Today there is a craze for e-books. Still, people buy books which they can read sitting anywhere in their house. This shows that books still hold their relevance and importance. Modern technology and the internet cannot stop people from buying books. People have realized that books are cheaper and require no maintenance, unlike a computer. In fact, many online stores like Amazon, Flipkart, etc. try to sell the latest books at the cheapest prices.I hope you will publish my letter in your esteemed newspaper so that the readers never forget the value of books and the pleasure of reading.

Yours truly,
Lalit.

6. Hawker Dilemma: Balancing Livelihoods and City Life
By Rita/Rakesh

The daily chaos caused by street markets clogging our roads is becoming progressively intolerable. Compact streets evolve into crowded thoroughfares, filled with blaring vehicles, frustrated commuters, and vendors striving to earn a livelihood. This problem of traffic jams not only causes inconvenience to pedestrians but also leads to accidents, road rage, and a general sense of unease.

Finding a solution requires acknowledging the needs of both parties. While street vendors are essential to the city's vibrant character, their current presence on main roads creates a traffic nightmare.

To address this, a balanced approach is required. Firstly, creating awareness among commuters and hawkers about the dangers and inconvenience caused by street markets is crucial. Secondly, exploring alternate venues for these markets, like designated spaces with proper infrastructure, could provide a more organized and safer solution. Finally, to ensure the effectiveness of these measures, strict enforcement against those who flout designated areas is imperative.

By working together, we can find a sustainable solution that allows hawkers to earn a livelihood while ensuring smooth traffic flow and a safer environment for everyone.

11. Answer any two of the following questions in 40-50 words each:

- (i) Antarctica is very much unique as well as specific than other parts of the globe. It is completely devoid of human markers and more than 90 per cent of the earth's total ice-volumes are stored on this sub-continent. In the beginning there was no life except flora and fauna. There are neither trees nor buildings. So we lose all earthly sense of perspective and time there. There is a day of 24 hours.
- (ii) After killing ninety nine tigers, the Maharaja persisted in his search for the hundredth tiger. The king was in gloom. But soon he heard the good news that dispelled his sadness. The sudden disappearance of sheep gave them some hope and the Maharaja set out on an expedition to find the hundredth tiger, which was supposed to be the reason for all this. The Maharaja announced an exemption of tax for three years and set out on tiger hunt once again. But to find a tiger did not seem to be an easy job for them. The king waited for many days but the efforts seemed in vain and in his rage, the Maharaja ordered the dewan to double the land tax.
- (iii) Around 650 million years ago, long before humans arrived, Earth was home to a variety of flora and fauna. About 500 million years later, or 150 million years ago, Gondwana land began to break apart due to a meteorite impact on Earth. The fragmented pieces of Gondwana eventually drifted and formed new continents. As a result, we now have seven continents in the world.

12. Shubhangi, all of us have made mistakes at one point or another in our lives. After all, to err is human. However, it is important to learn from our mistakes and evolve into better people. In "The Last Lesson" by Alphonse Daudet, Franz, the protagonist, regrets not taking his French lessons seriously until it was too late. He realizes the importance of his language and culture and how it connects him to his country. Similarly, in "The Rattrap" by Selma Lagerlöf, the peddler learns from his mistake of stealing and realizes that kindness and honesty are more important than material possessions. Both characters learn from their mistakes and evolve into better people. Shubhangi, it is never too late to start taking your academics seriously. Learn from your mistakes and work hard to achieve your goals. Remember, mistakes are opportunities to learn and grow.

Good morning to one and all!

After reading both poems, "Keeping Quiet" by Pablo Neruda and "A Thing of Beauty" by John Keats, I strongly believe that the preservation of nature is not just a necessity but a moral obligation for the benefit of mankind.

The Wisdom of Nature

In "Keeping Quiet," Neruda urges us to pause and reflect, suggesting that in moments of stillness, we can learn from nature. He writes, "Perhaps the Earth can teach us as when everything seems dead and later proves to be alive." This line reminds us that nature, even in its quietest moments, is full of life and wisdom.

The Beauty of Nature

Keats, in "A Thing of Beauty," celebrates the eternal beauty of nature. He writes, "but will keep a bower quiet for us," emphasizing that nature provides a sanctuary of peace and beauty. This beauty is not just aesthetic but also essential for our mental and emotional well-being.

The Importance of Preservation:

1. Nature provides essential services such as clean air, water, and fertile soil, which are vital for our survival.
2. Protecting natural habitats ensures the survival of countless species, maintaining the balance of our ecosystems.
3. Forests and oceans play a significant role in regulating the Earth's climate, helping to mitigate the effects of climate change.
4. Access to natural spaces has been shown to improve physical and mental health, reducing stress and promoting overall well-being.

Call to Action

As members of the Eco Club, it is our responsibility to lead by example and inspire others to take action. Here are some steps we can take:

1. Educate our peers and community about the importance of preserving nature and the benefits it provides.
2. Promote and adopt sustainable practices such as reducing waste, conserving water, and using renewable energy sources.
3. Organize tree planting drives, clean-up campaigns, and other community projects that contribute to environmental conservation.
4. Advocate for policies and initiatives that protect natural habitats and promote sustainability.

Thank you.

13. The moment I noticed that I was not alone as the old man could see me, I wanted to leave. But an interesting rather "peculiar" conversation kept me glued. I looked for secluded places as my self-confidence did not allow me to face the world. But I was surprised to see that Mr. Lamb did not find anything strange in me. He did not show any dislike or horror, which generally people expressed at first glance.
I noticed that like me, the old man also had a disfigured body part that attracted mockery.

Yet, he did not give in and was living his life happily. Mr. Lamb spoke words of encouragement, hope, and zest for life, which no one had ever spoken to me. He made me aware of his physical strength and explained the importance of emotional well-being. This realization drew me closer to the old man.

I was well aware of the fact that the act of saving the wounded enemy soldier was a serious crime by law and would be questioned by everyone but what we did was based completely on humanitarian grounds. We also had valid reasons for this. Dr. Sadao did it because of his sense of duty as a doctor, and as his wife it was my duty to stand with him. It was a time when we had to face open defiance from our domestic staff and at that time, apparently, my humanitarian instincts prompted me to wash and feed the enemy soldier Tom. They refused to cooperate and threatened to report the matter to the police as Japan was at war with America at that time. It was a crime to provide shelter to the enemy. But how could I see a wounded person being left in the lurch?

Sadao was bound by his moral responsibility as a doctor to save Tom, but I was under no such compulsion. Despite this, I chose to abide by my husband's decisions because I had pledged to support him even through the most difficult times. That is why I assisted Sadao in the operation on the American, even though I could not stand the blood. I started puking at the very sight of it. But anyhow we managed to arrange for a safe escape of the American.
