(1) The story of Grace Darling has captured imaginations for over a hundred years. Grace was an ordinary young woman who was boldly and unequivocally labelled a 'heroine' after the events of a stormy night in 1838. Being the daughter of a lighthouse keeper and having lived in various lighthouses, Grace was used to the harsh and dangerous environment around her. However, she had never experienced real danger until the night of the 7th September 1838 - the night that she entered the history books.

(2) On the 5th September the steamship SS Forfarshire set off from Hull to Dundee. On board the vessel were 60 crew members and passengers as well as containers of valuable cargo. Disaster struck the next day when the ship's boiler began to leak and by the morning of the 7th September the engine had stopped. The Forfarshire began to drift. Suddenly at about 4 a.m., there was a thunderous crash as the steamship collided with Big Harcar Rock. The impact was sudden and there was no time for the passengers to be called from their cabins and into smaller boats that would have taken them to safety. Within 15 minutes, the ship had broken in two. The sea waves pounded relentlessly at the fragile remnants of the ship until it had been reduced to a disintegrating wreck. The back half of the boat was swept away by the billowing waves and was quickly overpowered. The 48 people on board lost their fight for survival and were tragically consumed by the raging sea.

(3) That night, Grace Darling and her parents were in the lighthouse. They knew a fierce storm was blowing and they watched as huge waves battered their lighthouse walls. Grace who knew the sea intimately, who, within minutes of being in the sea's presence could tell the mood it was in, who read the signs and predicted its behaviour, had already sensed that something sinister was brewing. As a result, Grace stood by the lighthouse window that night and watched nervously as her long-time companion transformed into an unrecognizable and brutal force of death. It wasn't long before Grace saw some desperate and shadowy figures waving, their cries inaudible above the deafening crash of the savage sea.

(4) Grace's father knew that the local lifeboat service would not be able to launch their ship because of the brutal conditions; if these people were to have any chance of survival, then he and Grace were their only hope. Armed with blankets to warm any survivors, William and Grace took their tiny rowing boat and went into the vast and wild sea. Each wave appeared bigger than the last and the force of the rain stung their cheeks. It was almost impossible to see where they were heading and the boat was being thrown off course constantly. They knew the area around the Farne Islands was notorious for being a ship's graveyard and yet they rowed with determination towards almost certain death.

(5) As they approached the scene of the disaster, William went into the water to attempt to pull as many survivors into their boat as possible whilst Grace rowed frantically backwards and forwards just so she could stay in the same place and not crash into the reef. The storm whirled around her and the waves were like mountains. It was too late for many of the victims but William and Grace rescued nine people that night and rowed them back to safety. They arrived back to the lighthouse exhausted yet safely. Grace worked hard to care for the victims before they were returned to the mainland.

(6) Within a few days of the rescue, news of Grace's bravery had spread across the country. Newspaper reporters flocked to the village wanting to follow her every move. Requests for her to visit different places flooded in and many artists wanted her to sit for portraits. Such extraordinary bravery was a source of inspiration for many. Queen Victoria sent her £50 and she was awarded gold medals from a number of societies. However, Grace soon became increasingly weary of all attention and the commitments that came with it, feeling that she was unable to live a normal life any more. In a cruel twist of fate, Grace Darling succumbed to tuberculosis a mere four years later.

2. Read the following text.

(1) The Royal National Lifeboat Institution (RNLI) is the charity that saves lives at sea; they provide an on call, 24-hour, lifeboat search and rescue service and a seasonal lifeguard service. The vision of the RNLI has always been the same since its start in 1824: to end the preventable loss of life at sea.

(2) In 2013 there was an average of 23 RNLI lifeboats launched each day in the UK and across the year that total was 8,304. On an average, 23 rescues take place every day with 325 lives being saved in 2013 alone. These statistics surely prove that this type of service is fundamental to our safety.

(3) The RNLI have four core values and their work is driven by these values. All staff and volunteers are asked to strive for excellence in all they do. They are required to be selfless and put others before their own needs. They need to be dependable, always available and committed to saving lives. Being trustworthy is also a key value at the RNLI and staff and volunteers are asked to deal with their everyday affairs with transparency, integrity and impartiality. The RNLI is a charity and so it is important that the donations that people so generously entrust to the charity are used efficiently and wisely. Lastly, team members must be courageous as they are frequently putting themselves into dangerous situations.

(4) Since the RNLI's start in 1824, lifeboats and lifeguards have saved more than 140,000 lives. Although these figures are encouraging, it doesn't always translate to donations. None of the RNLI's work could happen without the generous gifts of the people of the UK. Some people leave money to the RNLI in their wills, others give one off donations and others give a little each month - every penny goes back into saving lives. The RNLI do not seek funding from central government and so they are dependent on donations as their income. Every time they have to deploy a lifeboat and lifeguards, it costs money. Some may say 'it is nothing to do with me' but nobody knows when we too may rely on such a service.

(5) Interestingly in 2013, 50% of all launches were to leisure craft users for example, powerboats, yachts, body boarders, surfers, etc. Although some people who find themselves in trouble do have the relevant experience and equipment to be in the sea, most do not. The RNLI are often called out to incidents where people have got into trouble through 'high jinx' or through not having awareness of the conditions of the sea. Without a service like the RNLI many precious lives would have been lost.

Answer the following questions, based on the passage.

The Chief Medical Officer

Subject: Complaint about the lack of organisation and smooth running of the casualty ward

Sir,

I am writing this letter to bring to your attention that your casualty ward is for a lack of a better word, a total mess. A week ago I ran into a hit and run accident victim and brought the victim to your hospital for medical aid. The victim was severely injured and was in need of immediate medical attention. But much to my dismay, your casualty/emergency ward lacked proper directions and proactive administrative staff. They wasted a lot of time in the chaos and made the gravely injured person wait for hours before medical attention was given to him. There was no proper system of admittance and direction of how to process such cases.

Fortunately, the patient did survive and is recovering but it would really save thousands of lives if you could kindly rectify this incompetence in your administrative dealings so that in future no lives would be lost while waiting for medical aid after reaching the hospital in time.

Yours faithfully

Maggie

5. A. The given double bar graph shows the increasing interest of students in taking up humanities as subject choice.

The given double bar graph shows the data of two years, if we look at it, in 2017, approximately 200 students opted for science, around 150 opted for commerce and around 200 opted for humanities. The interest in science and humanities was almost similar in 2017.

If we look at the data of year 2018, we see that there is a fall in the interest of students in science in comparison to 2017.

In 2018 around 175 students opted for science, around 100 students opted for commerce and maximum number of students showed interest in humanities taking the count to a remarkable 225 students in humanities.

To conclude the given information, the interest of students in humanities has seen a subsequent rise in the year 2018 and commerce and science have seen a slump in the interest rate.

5. B. Martial arts is a great form of exercise, as it has a number of health benefits. From physical fitness to mental and physical enhancement, martial arts paves way for people to reach their peak potential. There are different types of martial arts and children should learn at least one type for well-rounded physical growth and personality.

Martial arts will help to teach children the art of self-discipline. It teaches them restraint and patience. Learning martial arts is a full workout not only for the body but also for the mind as well. Having a competition or tournament that the children can aim for, helps them teach to set goals in life and whether they win or not it helps them to deal with either outcome that will be beneficial in later life.

It is also a good way to teach self-defense without the aggression. It improves the reflex and can help in a number of day-to-day activities, such as driving and cooking. For children, it keeps the mind sharp and in good shape to learn new skills.

Martial arts can help relieve you of your daily stress and help you focus on your task at hand, providing you with the opportunity to get rid of distractions. A common misconception of martial arts is that they promote violent behaviour but in fact it is quite the opposite. Martial arts teaches children peaceful, non-violent conflict resolution skills and emphasise that physical altercations must be avoided.

One of them tells us about the Chinese emperor who accidentally dropped a few leaves from the twigs used to light the fire under the pot in which he was boiling his drinking water. It made the water taste delicious. Those leaves were said to be tea leaves.
- v. Custard, the dragon had a formidable appearance, with sharp teeth, toes like daggers, spikes on back and scales on the belly. Its mouth was a fireplace and the nose was always fuming like a chimney. However, in sharp contrast to the appearance its temperament was extremely timid.
9. i. After entering the drawing room where the safe was, Horace Danby looked at the poor painting behind which the safe happened to be and thought for a moment about collecting the pictures instead of books. But instantly he thought that paintings would take up more space, so the books are good for his small house.
- ii. Sulekha is called 'Bholi' because she is a simpleton due to her suffering some brain damage after falling off a cot when she was ten months old. As a result, she is not as smart as children of her age.
- iii. Truth and honesty would have saved Matilda from her doom. If only she has been courageous enough to confess to her friend the truth of the necklace, she would have come to know that it was a fake one that cost a mere five hundred francs. She would not have spent her husband's entire inheritance and borrowed eighteen thousand francs to pay for its replacement. In fact, she would have saved herself and her husband from ten long years of crushing poverty, misery and back breaking labour.
10. A. Good morning, everyone. Today, I'd like to discuss the central themes of the two pieces of literature, 'Fog' and 'The Trees'.
- In the poem 'Fog', the poet uses an interesting metaphor to describe an element of nature. By suggesting that the movements of the fog are similar to those of a cat, he subtly equates the fog to the cat. Just like a cat, it moves stealthily and enters a city without anyone noticing it. Then it spreads over the entire city, just like a cat sits for a while in one place and observes its surroundings. Finally, the fog gradually dissipates from the city as well, like a cat.

In the poem "The Trees, the poet supports the liberty of the trees from human control by using the themes of freedom and liberation. The poet claims that humans have destroyed the forest and snatched it from the trees, which they called their home. They are no longer in their natural environment. But now that there are so many powerful initiatives urging people to recognise the value of trees, they are returning to their original homes. To conclude, I'd like to say we should understand nature and value its sacrifice for us.

Thank you.

B. Anne believes that people are not interested in other's life as they are stuck with their own problems so it is really hard to get someone who can give importance to her diary. People feel bored and become impatient when we talk about our problems.

On the other hand, when we write our feelings and thoughts on paper, we can write as long as we want without thinking of anyone's intention as it doesn't react. We can share our feelings, both sad and happy. It never gets bored or stops us to write. It behaves like a true friend who keeps your secret and listens to you patiently. So, she thinks that paper has more patience than people.

11. A. Guy de Maupassant's short story "The Necklace' is about a young woman, who daydreams about wealth, social status and a life of luxury. She is truly happy, when she is able to have that life for one night adorned with a beautiful dress and a borrowed necklace, which ultimately brings her doom. As the story begins, we find her living in delusions of grandeur, imagining a better life. One can be ambitious in life and dream big. But it is very important to remain true to oneself.

Adorning that expensive dress and seemingly expensive necklace Matilda creates a make believe for herself that she belongs to high strata of the society. Lost in her imaginary world, she enjoys herself to the fullest on that night, only to realise later that her life was going to be changed forever. She falls into the trap of drudgery and grinding poverty. In order to return the necklace to Mme. Forestier they had to give up all their comforts, Matilda starts doing her household chores and in this whole process loses ten years of youth and carefree life. There is a lot that we can learn from Matilda's life but most importantly staying true to one's reality and trying to live within the means of one's life. Even though the aspirations of a human being have no limit but it is important to stick to ground reality.

B. Owing to Bholi's handicaps and pock marked body, nobody was willing to marry Bholi. Finally, when Bishamber Nath, a well-to-do grocer from another village agreed to marry Bholi, sans dowry, her parents' happiness knew no bounds. Bishamber Nath was about forty-five to fifty years of age, limped and had grown-up children from his first marriage. Being from another village, he was unaware of Bholi's condition. Therefore, when he saw Bholi's face for the first time near the sacred fire, Bishamber Nath staggered. He demanded a dowry of five thousand rupees from Bholi's father and threatened to leave without marrying her. Ramlal wept and requested Bishamber Nath to take two thousand rupees instead of five and marry Bholi as their family honour was at stake. In spite of many pleadings, Bishamber Nath did not agree. Hence, a helpless Ramlal had to pay the former the hefty sum of money as dowry. However, Bholi, whom education had made a smart, courageous and confident girl, asked her father to take back the money from Bishamber Nath as she no longer wished to have such a 'greedy and contemptible coward' as her husband. Hearing Bholi speak her mind, her father sent Bishamber Nath and his wedding party packing. School education turned Bholi from a 'dumb cow' into a bold girl. This transformation is evident from the way she saved her father from a huge expense.
